VOTE CHANGE ASKED

...To Extend Literacy Test Ban

Washington (UPI) — The Nixon administration asked Congress Thursday to outlaw literacy tests as a qualification for voting throughout the nation instead of just in seven Deep South states. Liberals and moderates expressed sharp opposition.

The opponents contended the first major civil rights legislation offered by the administration actually weakened present law.

But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell argued it was "unreasonable" to apply the ban on literacy tests as a qualification for voting only to the South.

Residency Laws Hit

Mitchell also proposed that state residency requirements — which last year denied the vote to 5.5 million persons because they had recently moved — be outlawed in presidential elections.

Mitchell had postponed his appearance before a House judiciary subcommittee five times, reportedly because the administration feared antagonizing liberals with its civil rights proposals on the eve of a House vote on President Nixon's bill to extend the income tax surcharge.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., the 81-year-old dean of the House, argued that Mitchell's proposals were only a "monkey wrench . . . a delaying action."

Seven States Only

Mitchell argued that there may have been ample reason in 1965 for Congress to have passed a law applying only to seven southern states "but I do not believe that this justification exists any longer."

The 1965 act was applicable only to Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia and 40 counties of North Carolina. Since its adoption, 800,000 Negroes in those areas have registered to vote.

Twelve states which have laws on their books — not necessarily enforced — allowing them to deny the right to vote to persons who can't read would be covered by Mitchell's proposal to make the literacy tests illegal throughout the nation. They are Alaska, Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming.

Law Not Applied

Challenged by Celler to tell whether those states had used literacy tests to keep Negroes from voting, Mitchell said there was evidence the law had not been "appropriately applied." He cited Gary, Ind., as an example of a place outside the South where an investigation had been made into alleged irregularities.

"I think this is a delaying action," Celler said of Mitchell's proposals.

He said the "sickness" of racial discrimination in voting existed in the South and not in the rest of the nation and "it might not be proper to apply the same medicine" elsewhere.

Although it remained unstated, the liberals' opposition to the administration proposals appeared to be that it would be difficult for any non-southern congressman to vote against a bill merely extending the 1965 act. The liberals also contended that Justice Department voting examiners would be spread too thin if they had to enforce the law throughout the country.

Mitchell pointed to the mobility of the population in calling for a ban on state residency requirements to vote in presidential elections.

"The President is the representative of all the people and all the people should have a reasonable opportunity to vote for him," he said.

Sign Warns: Trespassers Will Be Shot

"I just got tired of all the damage and destruction I've had in the past years so I decided to do something about it," said Harold Sheldon of 3630 X.

Sheldon has posted a sign near the dead-end of Fontenelle St. that marks his property line.

The sign reads: "Notice to trespassers — anyone caught destroying this property or any other distruction (sic) will be shot in accordance with the new law passed by Nebraska Legislature."

The law (LB925) recently passed by the Legislature over Gov. Norbert Tiemann's veto and commonly referred to as the "self-defense bill" allows a citizen to "use any means necessary" to defend his home, life, or the lives of members of his family.

"Until I posted that sign," Sheldon said, "I had over $2,000 worth of property destroyed.

"I posted that sign two weeks ago and haven't received a dime's worth of damage to anything."

Sheldon admitted that he has had several complaints from people about the sign but firmly stated that the sign would remain up until "I know who's been doing the damage.

"I tried to find out who the guilty ones were and even called the police, but so far I haven't heard anything except complaints about my sign."

Sheldon did say that he won't actually shoot anyone with a firearm since there is an ordinance outlawing discharging firearms within the city limits.

"The sign just says 'shot' but it doesn't say with what," explained Sheldon.

"I have this tear-gas pen that works just fine," he said.

Violence Renewed In Omaha After Strife Appeared Ended

Omaha (AP) — Police were confronted with a third straight night of racial lawlessness Thursday as buildings were firebombed, police cars were pelted with bricks and rocks and guns were fired sporadically.

Officers told newsmen and others that white persons entered the largely Negro Near North Side business district at their own risk.

A dry goods store and liquor store were reported destroyed by firebombs, and a branch post office reportedly was damaged.

Large Crowds

Police said large crowds were moving through the streets at several points. Some policemen said bricks and rocks were thrown at their cars.

Patrolman Arnold Dailey, a Negro, was hospitalized with severe leg cuts.

At midnight, Police Chief Richard Andersen said one person had been arrested on a burglary charge and two on misdemeanor charges.

National Guardsmen were on alert at a local armory but had not been called in by midnight.

Mayor Eugene Leahy said at 5 p.m. that "the situation in north Omaha is under control." But some five hours later, police were confronted once again with an outburst of lawlessness.

Leahy had considered imposing a curfew and a prohibition on gasoline and liquor sales, but he said he believed "the situation will remain under control without alternative solutions being employed."

Toured Area

Leahy held lengthy meetings with Negro leaders and toured the North 24th Street neighborhood where violence flared after a 14-year-old Negro girl was fatally shot by a white police officer Tuesday evening.

The police officer, James Loder, 30, has been charged with manslaughter.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said the Near North Side was peaceful during the day Thursday, but he cancelled all policemen's leaves and put them on 12-hour shifts as a precautionary measure.

Andersen said at least five business places were destroyed and several others heavily damaged by fires in a 10-block section Wednesday night.

Firebombings, beatings, vandalism and one confirmed incident of rifle sniping were reported by police. Forty Negroes were arrested, 30 on felony charges.

Two bullets punctured a police cruiser, but Andersen said there were no serious injuries.

Adopted Son

Loder, who, according to city personnel records, is the adopted son of movie actress Hedy Lamarr and son of actor John Loder, was freed under $500 bond after pleading innocent to the manslaughter charge.

Municipal Court Judge Walter Cropper arraigned many of the Negroes Thursday afternoon. Twenty-one were charged with feloniously entering a building, one with carrying a concealed weapon, and eight others faced felony charges ranging from burglary to resisting arrest. Bonds varied from $100 to $500.

One 17-year-old boy was fined $20 and costs after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct, and another 17-year-old was placed on 90 days probation after pleading guilty on the same charge.

Most Youthful

Most of the Negroes arrested were teenagers or persons in their 20s.

Vivian Strong was killed by one shot in the back of the head as she and some other teen-agers ran through a public housing project. Loder and a Negro patrolman had been called to the scene to investigate a break-in.

Senators Gird For Momentous Day

. . . RIOT CONTROL ACTION ADDED TO ALREADY LOADED SLATE

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday girded itself for its most momentous day of the session thus far by adding an emergency riot control bill to Friday's final reading schedule.

Already highlighting the day's events are scheduled enactment of the $723 million operational budget bill and a measure authorizing municipalities to enact a city sales tax.

Also slated for final reckoning:

—legislation to meet new federal welfare requirements, chiefly in the program of aid to dependent children.

—a bill revising Nebraska law to conform to new federal truth-in-lending standards.

—a measure creating a Division of Juvenile Delinquency within the Department of Public Institutions.

Face Deadline

The bills conforming to federal requirements face a July 1 deadline.

Senators are also anxious to approve the operational budget measure before expiration of the state's fiscal biennium on Monday.

The city sales tax bill was rushed ahead at the request of Omaha city government.

And the riot control measure was hurried to a final vote Friday through some deft maneuvering in order to arm local and state authorities with new powers to quell civil disturbances in Omaha's Near North Side.

Many Powers

The bill, LB1381, would permit local or state authorities to declare a state of emergency under which law enforcement officials could enforce a curfew, ban the sale of liquor and guns, restrict sale of gasoline, prohibit the use of bullhorns and close places of public assemblage.

Strict penalties would be imposed for offenses ranging from rioting to unlawful assembly, and including newly defined disorderly conduct and assault upon emergency personnel offenses.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, whose Government and Military Affairs Committee sponsored the bill, said its swift enactment could "have a very good effect" in meeting Omaha's current problems.

No Emergency

But Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha told colleagues that he can see no emergency need for such a bill.

"There is nothing now that would stop the police from enforcing the law," he declared.

Proud said he is asking preparation of a bill which would repeal the Legislature's earlier enactment of an unlimited self-defense law which, he suggested, may have contributed to the present disturbances in Omaha.

"I've never heard such a ridiculous statement from an intelligent person," Carpenter retorted.

"The feeling is mutual," Proud replied.

Dodge Problems

Dodging constitutional problems, the Legislature refused to convene Thursday until printed final reading copies of LB1381 reached the chamber.

The constitution prohibits enactment of any law until a printed copy of the bill has rested on legislative desks for at least one full legislative day.

Copies of the bill were not on senatorial desks when the Legislature was scheduled to convene at 9 a.m. At the urging of Carpenter, lawmakers scattered for the Statehouse coffee shop and only three senators answered the opening roll call.

Once the bill was delivered to the legislative chamber, senators reassembled and formally convened at 10:13 a.m.

Begins Tuesday

The big budget bill, LB1421, appropriates funds for the operation of state government during the 1969-71 fiscal biennium, which begins Tuesday.

Included in the package is some $297.8 million in general fund money, almost $17 million below Gov. Norbert Tiemann's operational recommendation but about 15% above the current level of state spending.

The city sales tax measure, LB578, would authorize municipalities to levy a tax of either one-half percent or one percent on top of the state sales tax rate.

In addition to its rush to meet both statutory and artificial deadlines, the Legislature knows it must act on the major proposals Friday or wait until July 7. Senators begin a nine-day Fourth of July holiday recess Saturday.

Red Side Rejects Nixon Conditions As Pretexts For U.S. 'Aggression'

© The New York Times

Paris — North Vietnam and its allies Thursday dismissed President Nixon's conditions for future U.S. troop withdrawals as pretexts for continued American aggression in South Vietnam.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, former minister of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, and Col. Han Van Lau, of North Vietnam, assailed statements Nixon made on July 19 when they spoke at the 23rd plenary session of the four-party peace talks.

Their speeches concentrated on Nixon's remarks and on the American policy of replacing Americans with South Vietnamese forces. They showed "no will to negotiate" according to Henry Cabot Lodge, chief of the U.S. delegation, after the session at the International Conference Center near the Arc de Triomphe.

Nixon's conditions for future troops withdrawals were the target for Mrs. Binh and Col. Lau.

At his June 19 news conference Nixon said he had hopes of meeting former secretary of defense Clark M. Clifford's proposal for the withdrawal of 100,000 troops by the end of this year. But Nixon stressed that the number to be withdrawn would depend on the training of the South Vietnamese forces, progress in the talks here and other factors.

"By posing these conditions Mr. Nixon is actually seeking pretexts for permanently prolonging the presence of U.S. expeditionary troops in South Vietnam and for pursuing the (U.S.) policy of aggression," Mrs. Binh said.

Lau said Nixon's conditions were "impracticable." Nixon, he said, "puts forth conditions for troops withdrawals so as not to have to do so."

Connection Rejected

The connection between progress in the peace talks and such withdrawals also was rejected by the North Vietnamese delegate.

"As long as the United States sticks to its neo-colonialist position" and demands mutual troop withdrawal and reciprocity "the Paris peace talks can make no progress" Lau said.

Argentine Terrorists Hit Rockefeller Stores

Buenos Aires, Argentina (AP) — Terrorists set off incendiary bombs Thursday in 14 of 17 supermarkets owned by a Rockefeller-founded corporation here in protest against the visit next week of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Seven of the large, modern supermarkets were destroyed and seven were "damaged partially," said a spokesman.

He estimated damage at $2.85 million.

Police said they did not know who planted the bombs. This was the first major terrorist attack under the three-year-old regime of President Juan Carlos Ongania.

Visit Set Sunday

The New York governor flies here from New York on Sunday night for the first stop of his fourth and final fact-finding swing into Latin America for President Nixon. From here he will fly to Haiti.

Sources in Argentina said that Rockefeller's stay in Argentina would be cut to 36 hours, from its original planned duration of three days, because of violence associated with Thursday's bombings. Rockefeller's New York office denied this, however, saying he still plans to arrive Sunday and leave Tuesday at noon.

Outbreaks of student rioting and labor unrest began in late May and have created a critical situation for Gen. Ongania's government.

Raimundo Ongaro, chief of the powerful antigovernment wing of the National Labor Confederation, announced worker demonstrations will be staged Friday against the government and Rockefeller's visit. Student groups have announced support for these demonstrations.

Until last month, Ongania's regime had created an image of economic development in the midst of social tranquility. But the government's economic austerity policies, especially a wage freeze, and its strict control of university activities gave rise to rioting and strikes last May.

In a three-week period, 19 persons were killed, modified martial law was declared, a 24-hour strike paralyzed the country and Ongania replaced his entire Cabinet.

The supermarkets attacked by the terrorists were operated by the Minimax Corp., a subsidiary of International Basic Economy Corp., which the governor founded 22 years ago.

Moonship Crews Start Countdown Trial Run

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (UPI) — Launch crews switched on electrical power to the Apollo 11 moonship Thursday for a week-long trial countdown for the July 16 start of its manned lunar landing adventure.

The countdown test, schedule to run from 11 p.m. CDT Thursday to 8:32 a.m. July 2, will include nearly everything but ignition of the five engines on the first stage of Apollo 11's Saturn 5 rocket.

After giving the moonship module a thorough inspection, technicians applied electrical power from the launch pad gantry to the spacecraft's systems and began running checks for the rehearsal countdown.

Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldin will not take part in the countdown test, but plan to run through an abbreviated dry run of their part of the countdown July 3.

While technicians prepared Apollo 11 for the test countdown, another launch crew went ahead with the preliminary countdown for the Saturday night launch of a monkey in a biosatellite.

The animal, to be selected Friday from five flight candidates, is scheduled to orbit earth for 30 days in the most exhaustive study ever made on how prolonged weightlessness affects an organism.

Ben Het Camp Could Fall But Reds Would Pay For It

Saigon (AP) — The 3,000 North Vietnamese besieging Ben Het could probably seize that Special Forces camp if willting to pay the price, a U.S. officer declared Thursday.

And it was disclosed that more than 100 U.S. artillerymen and Green Beret troops have been killed or wounded in the incessant barrages that have been pouring in on the camp since June 1. South Vietnamese irregular defenders also have been hard hit.

The camp, in the central highlands 280 miles north of Saigon, is on an enemy infiltration route from the borders of Cambodia and Laos, and the North Vietnamese may be trying to neutralize it. They are testing the South Vietnamese forces, who have taken over the defense of the region from U.S. troops.

The senior Green Beret officer in the area, Lt. Col. Andrew Marquis, said the North Vietnamese have two full infantry regiments — the 28th and 66th—around Ben Het as well as an artillery regiment and a sapper battalion.

Shells Crash In

The defenders of Ben Het, mud-caked and weary, hugged their bunker walls again Thursday as enemy shells crashed into the camp that has been under fire for 57 days.

Despite allied counterartillery fire, nearly 1,000 air strikes and 4,500 government troops maneuvering in the area, North Vietnamese gunners recently have boosted their daily shelling of the outpost.

Although allied spokesmen in Saigon have claimed Ben Het is not under siege, the 700 Vietnamese and Montagnard civilian irregulars, their U.S. Green Beret advisers and American artillerymen defending the camp don't see it that way.

Fresh Troops Sought

One American officer told Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett at Ben Het: "Saigon keeps asking why we don't lift the siege. I tell them why we can't — the troops are tired. The Vietnamese may have taken as many as 50% casualties. We need more people, fresh people."

A government spokesman announced that a four-day operation to clear Route 512 leading into Ben Het from Dak To ended Wednesday with 214 enemy soldiers killed, including 56 by air and artillery. He said South Vietnamese losses were 17 killed and 94 wounded.

The spokesman also said they had cleared the highway, but no allied trucks have ventured along the road since Tuesday and critical supplies were still going into Ben Het by parachute drops.

Casualties Drop

The U.S. Command in Saigon announced that 247 Americans were killed in action last week, a drop of 88 from the previous week. The number of wounded fell from 1,695 to 1,686.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 474 of its men were killed and 1,496 wounded last week, compared with 516 killed and 1,424 wounded the week before.

The two commands reported 3,988 enemy troops were killed last week, compared with 4,504 the previous week.

Desegregation Debate Causes Problems

Washington (UPI) — A debate within the Nixon administration over a possible easing of school desegregation guideline enforcement was reported Thursday to be creating difficulties for federal field workers dealing with southern school officials.

"I just talked to some of our people who said there is some concern about what is happening," Leon E. Panetta, civil rights director in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said in an interview.

While Panetta said he had not heard of any instances of local school officials absolutely refusing to negotiate with federal desegregation teams, the implication was that confusion over the fate of the guidelines was generating some resistance among southern officials who expect easier treatment from Washington.

There have been persistent reports that the administration was ready to announce elimination or delay of the September deadline for 800 school districts to submit acceptable desegregation plans to HEW. Unless the present deadline is met by the time schools reopen in the fall, these districts face loss of all federal financial aid under the 1964 civil rights act.

The new plan as reported Wednesday would merely require school districts to file a notice of their intent to abide by desegregation guidelines and give them unlimited time to comply. One alternative said to be under discussion would extend the September deadline by one year.

President Nixon has been under pressure, much of it from southerners, to ease desegregation policies set by the Johnson administration. Present guidelines, established in January, 1968, called for all school systems to desegregate by the fall of that year or the fall of 1969, with some exceptions.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Add Powerglide, power disc brakes and whitewalls to this Chevelle.
Subtract $69.00 from last year's price.

You've heard that general rule. To get more you pay more.

Let's break it.

Take this '69 Malibu Sport Coupe. With head restraints. Add Powerglide automatic transmission, power disc brakes and whitewall tires. (Wheel covers, too, which haven't changed in price.) Then total. When you compare it with last year's Malibu, equipped the same way, it's priced $69.00* less.

The reason? We've made head restraints standard. And, while the whitewalls went up slightly, we've cut the price on Powerglide and our advanced-design power disc brakes, substantially. Altogether, it's more Chevelle for less money. Nice.

So's this. A standard 200-hp V8 engine. Astro Ventilation and full door-glass styling. A new anti-theft locking device on the steering column helps keep your car yours. A computer-selected suspension gives you a ride so smooth it leaves bumps where they belong. On the road. And it's all on Chevelle. Priced $69.00 less.

You see. You don't have to pay more to get more. And your Chevrolet dealer's proving it right now.

Village Marshal Facing Charges Of Malfeasance

Omaha (AP) — Verdell Sherman Green, village marshal of Waterloo, was arrested Thursday on a complaint charging malfeasance in office. He was released on $500 bond.

Deputy County Attorney William Gallup said the charge stemmed from alleged "improper" conduct and remarks by the 40-year-old Green during the arrest last month of an 18-year-old girl.

The girl and two companions were arrested in Waterloo May 11. The girl went to the office of Sheriff Theodore Janing a day later to complain about the marshal's conduct.

Elkhorn Logjam Danger Passes

Lincoln Star Special

Norfolk — City Administrator Paul Harm said Thursday afternoon the danger of flooding caused by a logjam on the Elkhorn river had passed and the river had dropped well below flood stage.

Attempts to dynamite the logjam failed Wednesday and Harm late Wednesday afternoon had made available to the public some 3,500 sandbags while city crews located large piles of sand at a number of areas around the city.

A dragline used Wednesday morning was at first unsuccessful at breaking up the jam, which had grown during the night, but later efforts were successful.

Earlier there had been worries that the jam might endanger the Elkhorn bridge at First Street. The logjam caused only some lowland flooding.

Mobile Home Plant Will Locate At Neligh

Neligh (AP) — Ritz-Craft Inc., of Argos, Ind., builder of mobile homes, manufactured homes, travel trailers and pickup campers, has acquired a 48,000 square foot manufacturing plant owned by Northeast Nebraska Area Development Corp. of Neligh.

Larry Ritzenthaler, president of Ritz-Craft, announced that the new facility will employ 50 to 65 persons and is expected to be in production by July 15.

Ritzenthaler credited Bob Shively, industrial development manager of Consumers Public Power District, with first interesting the firm in the Neligh facility.

Ritz-Craft started in 1954. The company has plants in Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Louisiana, Indiana, Florida and New York. It has more than 1,000 employees and has produced in excess of 65,000 mobile homes and recreational vehicles. Sales for the year ended Jan. 31 totaled $23.7 million.

Ritzenthaler said Ritz-Craft and the Wickes Corp. of Saginaw, Mich., have reached an agreement in principle for the acquisition of Ritz-Craft by Wickes.

Nebraskans Vote With Majority

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Republican Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska voted with the majority on a Senate resolution on aiding foreign nations.

The vote was 70-16 to adopt the resolution admonishing President Nixon and his successors not to promise or use U.S. troops or financial resources to aid any foreign country without affirmative action by Congress.

Conscientious Objector Resolution Is Approved

. . . By United Presbyterian Synod

Hastings (UPI) — The Nebraska synod of the United Presbyterian Church Thursday approved a resolution saying it would be dangerous for the government to "ride roughshod" over those who claim to be conscientious objectors.

The resolution was to have been voted on Friday, but the press of business brought the vote late Thursday.

John Crosley, chairman of religion at Hastings College and a member of the church's Christian Education Committee, said the church has always recognized war was the "lesser of two evils," but reemphasized "the historic position of the Presbyterian Church of the rights of individuals before God."

He said some religious groups, including the Quakers, have traditionally had conscientious objector rights, but others have had a harder time of it.

"The position we're advocating is not a position of letting everybody do exactly as he pleases," Crosley said, "but where there are tremendously strong conscientious convictions, it is dangerous for the government to ride roughshod over them."

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One's mind tends to run astray when he thinks of the fatal shooting by an Omaha policeman of a 14-year-old Negro girl. The tragedy floods you with thoughts of all the human complications with which we are beseiged today.

There is the necessity for law and order, for instance, which must be balanced with compassion and understanding. There is the law-enforcement role which is prominent for any police department but which must be balanced against the basis of law in the acquiescence of the people.

There is a tremendous reservoir of human potential which constantly runs afoul of our total environment. There is opportunity with strings attached to it when it should be floating in the air within the easy grasp of everyone.

There is in our economic system an essential relationship between productivity and rewards but it is often impossible for some people to become an integral part of this cause and effect. Since the relationship is an essential one, we cannot discard it, but neither have we fashioned a means of removing its weaknesses.

We say that every man has a right to make his mark in the world and that he can do so if only he tries hard enough. But we ignore the all-important factors of motiviation, professional skills and individual dignity.

There is no way at the moment to make a total and final assessment of the Omaha shooting episode. Criminal charges have been filed against the officer involved and this has placed a blanket of silence over "his side of the story."

Why did he fire his gun, at all, and was the fatal hit an accident? Probably; we will not know at least until his trial on charges of manslaughter.

★

It could be said, and will be, that had the girl who was shot been at home where she should have been, this would not have happened. Had she not gone to the scene of a burglary arrest and had she not fled the scene, this would not have happened.

A group of youngsters gathered at the scene and then ran, apparently for the simple reason of seeing what the arresting officers would do. The righteous can say that the youngsters should not have done this.

Someone might wonder, however, what kind of conditions prevail when youngsters know it is a taunt simply to run from police for no apparent reason. You have to wonder what has taken place in our midst when the police become an adversary.

Certainly, this is not their role but many of them do not know it. Above all, they should value human life but frequently give to other things a much higher priority.

And you simply have to be horrified at the thought of a bullet in the head, ending the life of a 14-year-old girl.

Under any circumstances, such an event would be a tragedy but it is something worse than that, even, under conditions of violence and supposedly mature, adult responsibility. One man's act killed this little girl but all of society shares in the guilt.

Far too little has been done to try to eliminate the multiplicity of conditions which are an obvious part of this sad development. We have not carefully honed our apprehension of the disadvantaged in our midst and, therefore, have found no means of curing the ill.

Time after time, we fall back on little Franklinisms, on false pride, on greed, on ignorance and on selfishness to avoid the hard reality of our respnsibility to our fellow man.

Many reasons will be found to excuse or justify the killing of this young Omaha girl and to absolve the community as a whole from any pangs of conscience. But she is dead and that is wrong and we throw our ethics to the wind when we refuse to face that fact.

The wind will so scatter our ethics that, unless we retrieve them in time, we will suffocate in our remaining indulgence.

President Placating Howard Hughes' Ire

WASHINGTON — Without any fanfare, the Atomic Energy Commission has been conducting highly significant tests deep under the deserts of Nevada to demonstrate that the anti-ballistic missile system will really work

And to prevent any public protests over the tests, President Nixon has dispatched two of his most trusted personal emissaries, Bebe Rebozo and Herbert Klein, his communications director, to Nevada to smooth the feathers of Howard Hughes, biggest owner of Nevada real estate, who has protested vigorously against previous underground nuclear tests.

Reason for the urgency of the current tests is that Nixon wants them finished prior to Senate debate over the anti-ballistic missile system in order to counteract the contention that the ABM is untested and won't work.

The Nevada tests consist of exploding large doses of nuclear energy in vacuum compartments underground. The vacuum compartments are supposed to simulate the lack of air density in outer space since the ABM counter missiles would be exploded at a very high altitude.

In these underground vacuum compartments are being detonated nuclear warheads of a simulated 200-megaton strength, which is four times greater than anything yet exploded. So far the biggest nuclear explosion is a 50-megaton blast by the Russians. It's planned that the United States will use up to 200 megatons to knock out any incoming enemy missiles. ABM's tentative plan is to explode incoming missiles high up in outer space, in effect fight a nuclear duel in the skies.

So far the tests have indicated, according to some scientists close to the scene, that the ABM would be able to knock out any Chinese missiles, but not Russian missiles which are highly sophisticated.

Meanwhile, Nixon's personal envoys to the Howard Hughes empire, Rebozo and Klein, were not able to see Hughes himself, but talked to his right-hand man, Robert Mahew, who seemed impressed with the fact that the President would send his intimate friend from Key Biscayne and his director of communications to see him.

Secretary of Transportation John Volpe is making an exhaustive effort to recruit and advance Negroes in his department.

He has ordered a survey of all Negroes in the top grades who haven't been promoted for two years to find out whether they are underemployed and to boost them up the government ladder.

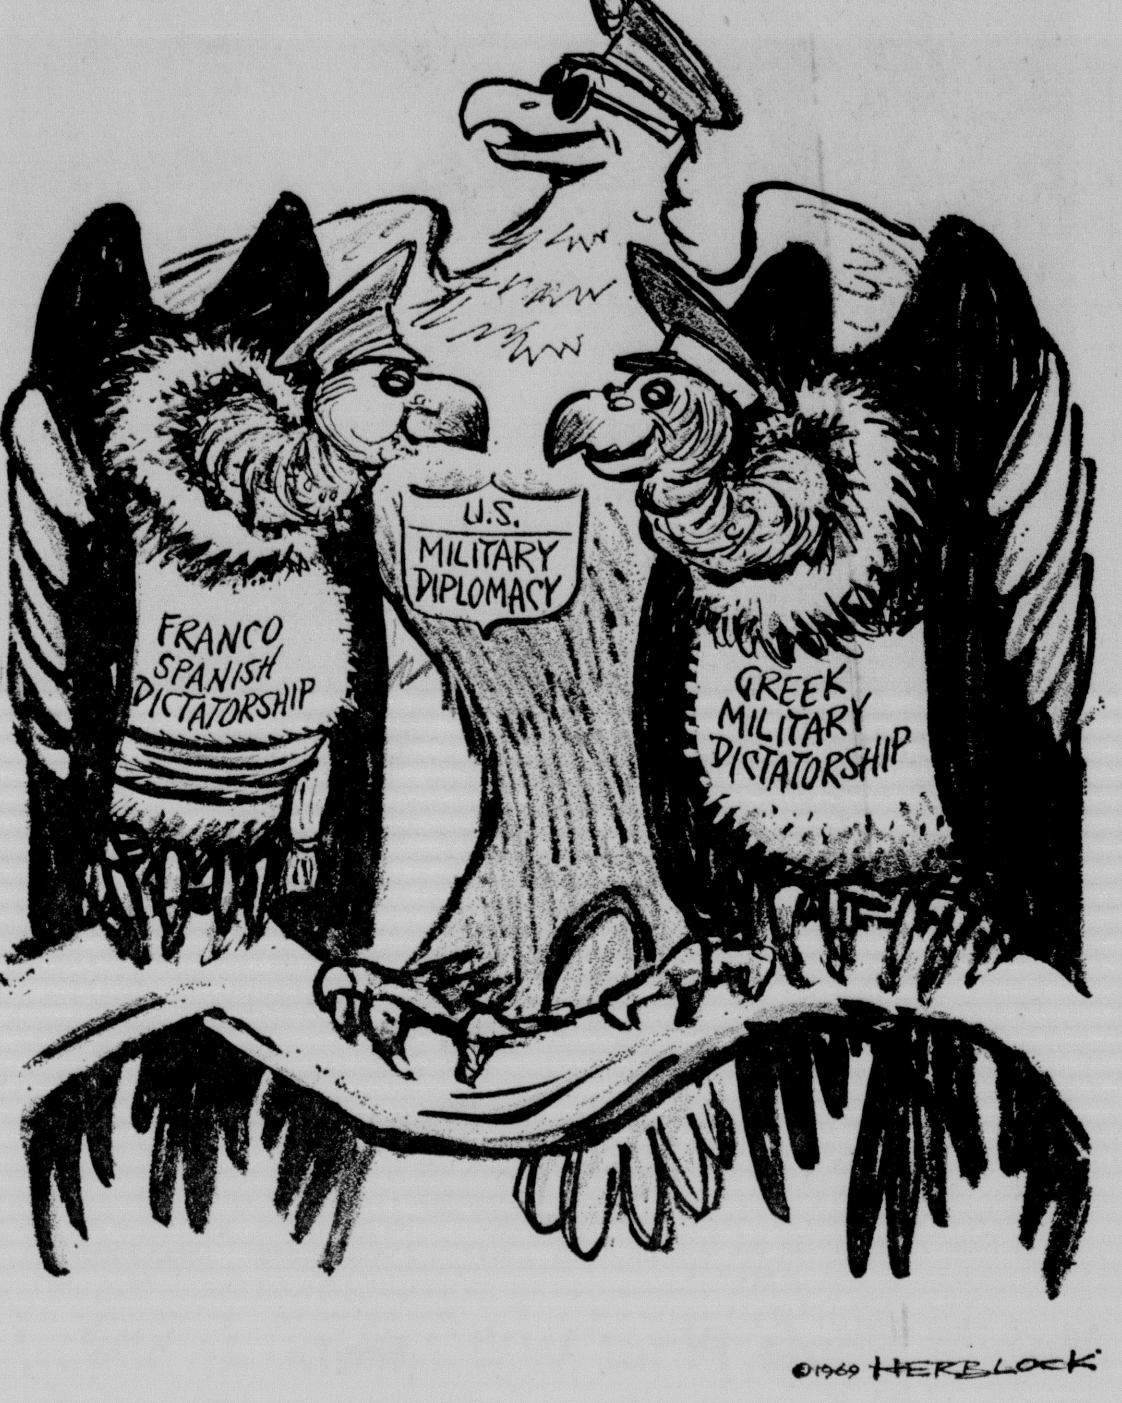
'We Eagles Have To Stick Together'



Desegregation Put Off?

Reports from Washington indicate that the Nixon administration within days will announce that some 800 school districts facing a September deadline will be given more time to desegregate.

Two alternative plans are being discussed which reportedly would abolish desegregation guidelines set down in the Johnson administration which called for the segregated districts to lose all federal aid if they do not adopt desegregation plans acceptable to the Health, Education and Welfare Department by the time school resumes in the fall.

Easing the present guidelines would jibe with President Nixon's campaign statements. He doubtless has been the subject of continued pressure by southerners and his political advisors to modify desegregation policies.

Under one of the alternatives, schools now facing a September deadline for desegregation would be given another year to comply before risking the loss of federal funds. Under the other, districts would still have to submit plans, but there would be no definite deadline for compliance.

It is tragic that Robert Finch, HEW secretary and the brightest star in the President's cabinet, has by necessity been forced to toe his master's line. Prior to this week, Finch apparently had not wanted to see the pace of school desegregation eased. Wednesday, he said the guidelines should be re-evaluated to provide "a more realistic time approach."

"Certainly all incentive to comply will be destroyed if deadlines are adjusted or abolished," said Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., in commenting on the reports. Deadlines that should have been met long ago. Political expediency can be the only answer the President has.

Where Should Power Rest?

An interesting and important question is raised by Senate adoption of a resolution calling for approval by Congress before the president commits U.S. troops or financial resources to the aid of any other country.

By looking at the Constitution, one would have a hard time figuring out where the founding fathers intended to place the responsibility for foreign affairs. The presidential responsibility for these stems mainly from his constitutional role of commander and chief of the armed forces.

But congressional approval is required for treaties and congressional authority is provided for the establishment of the military and its support. By tradition, however, foreign policy has tended to be a dominantly presidential matter.

This is an area, it seems, where the federal government might well make a concerted effort to straighten matters out. Foreign policy will always involve some gray areas but surely there could be a more clear-cut division of authority than now exists between Congress and the president.

The president should not be hamstrung in protecting the interests of the nation on the international scale. However, neither should he have the full and final authority in the commitment of this nation to war with a foreign enemy. In between is a vast ground for maneuver and discussion which has led, in the past, to more conflict than should be the case.

Many Vital Government Posts Not Yet Filled As Competition Of American Life Exacts Toll

NEW YORK — The Nixon administration has been remarkably slow in filling many key posts in the new American government. For example, its ambassador to Japan has just reported for duty this week, and its ambassador to West Germany has not yet been confirmed — though these are clearly two of the most important diplomatic posts in the world.

Even in Washington, many key appointments have not yet been made five months after President Nixon took over, and it is interesting to analyze why this is so.

First, the Republicans have been out of power for 28 of the last 36 years. Most of their illustrious members have been in business and in professions, where the financial rewards increasingly depend on stock options and retirement benefits, and usually confront them with serious financial losses when they come up against the government's conflict-of-interest regulations.

Second, the Republicans do not have as large a following as the Democrats among the talented intellectuals and technicians in the universities, and in these affluent days, when professors are increasingly following lucrative secondary careers with commercial firms, the intellectuals are hesitating to go to Washington unless they can serve under a particularly exciting administration.

This much, however, was expected by the President and his principal aides and recruiters. What has surprised them, however, is how many times they have considered prominent men with established reputations, only to discover after careful investigation, some physical or psychological weakness that disqualified the man for the job.

No doubt there are other reasons, less disturbing. For so political a President, Nixon came to office with very few job commitments, and he has wisely refused to hand over his appointive power to the Republican national and state political committees.

Also, unlike President Kennedy, he neither had a wide personal acquaintanceship in the academic community, nor was he willing — outside a couple White House appointments — to take as many chances as Kennedy with men he didn't know personally or by reputation.

There is also a feeling, in some quarters at least, that President Nixon has surrounded himself with a White House staff that is overly protective of his time and thus keeps him from meeting many talented men who might have been willing to join his administration.

Still, the most interesting question is whether it is true that the competition of American life is wasting and devouring men before their time. There is good reason for believing it is true. Everywhere today one hears the complaint, even in the universities, that the struggle to get ahead, and even to manage one small part of a great machine, leaves a man little time to think about what he is doing or even to reflect on the purpose of the enterprise or institution he serves.

John Gardner, the former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, recently observed that America was raising a generation of managers but not of leaders — and that the managers were becoming so specialized in one aspect of the larger operation that they had no time, energy, or eventually capacity to see the larger purposes of what they were doing.

Politicians, of course, have the same problem, only worse. President Nixon, unlike President Johnson, has been very conscious of the dangers of exhaustion. He has been pacing himself carefully and getting away to Florida or Camp David at the weekend to retain his energy and perspective, but it would be almost impossible to overestimate the damage done in the Vietnam decisions alone in recent years as a result simply of physical and mental weariness.

In recent days, two of the country's most distinguished mayors, Ivan Allen of Atlanta and Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, have announced that they would not seek re-election, and even Mayor John Lindsay of New York, young as he is, seriously considered whether the personal and family sacrifices of public office were not too great to continue the battle.

Meanwhile, the competition is beginning earlier and increasing all the time: to get into the best schools, to get into the best universities, and to meet the tests of a compulsive and driving society. Mr. Nixon was at least spared in middle life by defeat, but his search for successful men is turning up some tragic cases, and forcing some somber conclusions.

BOB CONSIDINE

Traffic Cops Of The Air

NEW YORK — About $100,000,000 worth of 600-mile-an-hour jet transports inched toward the runway at LaGuardia Airport one day last week. The passengers were imprisoned within the cabins as surely as the inmates at nearby Riker's Island prison were cooped in their cells. The difference between the two groups was that the passengers were closer to revolt. Some of the planes were three hours late taking off on flights that would consume less than a third of that time.

New York that day was among three great air centers hit by a shortage of members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers union. As civil servants in the Federal Aviation Administration, they were not permitted to strike. So, officially, they were "sick" and couldn't report to work. They knew from their legal counsel, F. Lee Bailey, that nothing could happen to them. Mr. Bailey is the streamlined Clarence Darrow who sprang Dr. Sam Sheppard and saved the neck of the Boston strangler. He has threatened to pull out all of his people if the FAA doesn't stop "intimidating" them.

The beef of the traffic controllers — there are 24,000 of them in the U.S. airways system's control centers, towers and flight service stations — is that their absolutely vital role in aviation progress is not properly appreciated. They are the traffic cops of the air. Without them, there would be catastrophic chaos over our major cities.

They are not required to hold a college degree in order to be eligible to man a position in a control tower and protect hundreds of lives and millions of dollars in equipment somewhere high overhead, stacked up in the fog-shrouded night. The tension of their jobs is such that they "burn out" after 15 or 20 years. They must be replaced by fresh young colleagues whose reflexes are in better condition.

But where do the old gentlemen of 40, let's say, go when they are eased out of their towers? There is no ready market for their skills. They cannot wave a sheepskin at a prospective employer as can, say, an FBI agent who is moving on to other work. He's required to have one.

So they'd like the FAA to help them through college during their working years. And they'd like Civil Service to lift the ceiling on the salary limitations it imposes on them. If not, they'll get "sick," and cripple a transportation system without which the nation cannot function.

☆ ☆ ☆

The case of the "sick" men is but one aggravation facing commercial aviation. It got too big too fast. President Nixon said it simply in his message to Congress last week:

"Years of neglect have permitted the problems of air transportation in America to stack up like aircraft circling a congested airport.

"The purpose of air transportation is to save time. This purpose is not served when passengers must wait interminably in terminals; when modern jet aircraft creep at five miles per hour in a long line waiting for takeoff; when it takes longer to land than it takes to travel between cities; or when it takes longer for the air traveler to get to an airport than it does to fly to his destination."

Planes now carry more intercity passengers than any other means of common carriage. The 150 million passengers flown last year tripled the 1958 total. In the ten years of the Jet Age, the number of private planes doubled and the use of air freight quintupled.

The President has asked Congress to give $2.5 billion for airport development over the next ten years as compared with the less than one billion appropriated in the past ten years. The states and cities would be required to match the federal funding. The President's bill suggests that the $2.5 billion can be raised from new taxes within the aviation fold — not from the non-flying public: a tax of eight per cent on airline tickets for domestic flights; a $3 tax on international flights which take off from the U.S., five per cent on air freight waybills, and a tax of nine cents a gallon on all fuels used by private planes.

New access roads to airports, bigger and more efficient terminals, better handling of baggage and a hundred other details need strict attention today. The first of the Jumbo Jets, some of them capable of carrying 485 passengers at a clip, will be with us late this year. Virtually every air terminal now being built or expanded will be obsolete the day the facility is dedicated. And perhaps immobilized by a "sick" tower, if the controllers don't get what they want.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Congress Expert At Moonlighting

NEW YORK — Politicians who carry on about "The Sacrifices of Public Service" give it a nice oratorical ring — but the reality is getting hard to find.

"Have a Rewarding Career in Government" stands up better. Even for the unsuccessful ones.

Almost anyone turned out of office is taken on somewhere else in the government machinery if he wants to be. And if he doesn't, he's pretty sure to be worth more on the open market than he was when he went in.

The Johnson family fortune, for example, improved by from $10 to $30 million (depending on whose figures you use) while he was in public life.

Richard Nixon was worth a quarter of a million dollars a year to a law firm as a defeated presidential candidate. And his net worth increased from a little more than Pat's "good Republican cloth coat" of the Checkers speech to more than a half-million dollars by the time he was elected president.

(All the girls in the family have fur coats now. Apparently fur is no longer Democratic.)

Past cabinet officers, press secretaries and presidential assistants are all doing very well, thank you.

☆ ☆ ☆

And life is pleasant enough for the Congress. There's that new pay raise, for one thing, and the special tax deduction for living expenses. Plus junkets with tax money to "study" something in Paris or London or Rome. Like the planeload who couldn't be found at the Paris Air Show they went to see.

Then there's always a few bucks in making a speech somewhere. Or a testimonial dinner. Or writing an article. (Playboy, which might be described as a technical publication, pays up to $2,000 for government bylines.)

And then there are those "outside financial interests" to help meet payments on congressional mortgages and put braces on the little one's teeth.

Talk about moonlighting!

The Senate and the House as last have made a slight move toward requiring their members to let the taxpayers in on a few secrets heretofore known only to their accountants and the tax collector.

And even the part of the iceberg that shows is interesting. Nearly two-thirds of the House disclosed they get outside income from the stock market, keeping their names on law office doors, acting as corporation directors, and running hometown businesses on the side.

Banking and such is the most popular outside activity — 90 representatives have some kind of an interest in banks, savings and loan associations, or holding companies.

Law is second. Seventy-seven House members still have ties with legal firms, whose clients are impressed with a congressman's name on the letterhead.

☆ ☆ ☆

In the Senate, the members don't have to reveal much to the public. Just a list of their contributions and "honorariums" from speaking and writing.

But those "honorariums" aren't chicken feed. Last year Sen. Barry Goldwater made $66,873 . . . Sen. Edward Brooke earned $21,556 . . . Sen. J. William Fulbright made $19,967 . . . and Sen Mike Mansfield talked $16,000 worth.

In just six months, Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen collected $18,158. He has his record royalties, too. Come to think of it, if you can't get a Dirksen speech, you can hear him on your phonograph.

Headlines give a show biz glow to a congressman on the rubber chicken circuiit. Before last summer Sen. Eugene McCarthy was lucky to get $750 a speech; last year he netted $11,500. Ditto Sen. George McGovern; his presidential bid ran his earnings up to $10,525.

There's nothing wrong with having money when you get to Congress, and it's great that successful men are willing to represent us. But I thought you'd sleep better nights knowing that if a man hasn't made it by the time he gets there, he most likely will when he leaves. Or maybe even while he's there.

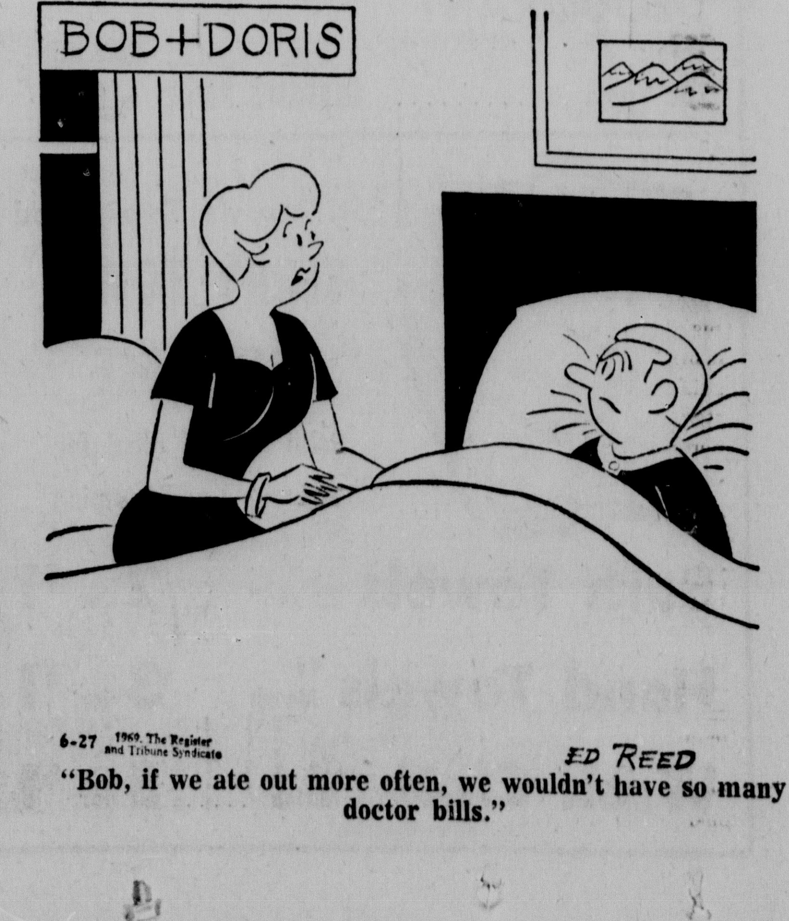
OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed



BOB+DORIS

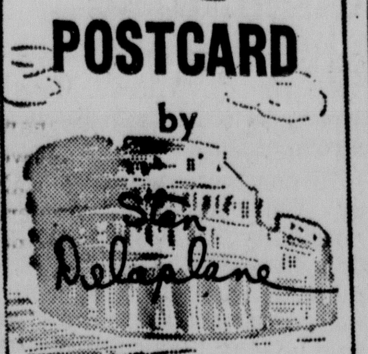
1969, The Register and Tribune Syndicate
ED REED

"Bob, if we ate out more often, we wouldn't have so many doctor bills."



For $75 a week we rented a thatched cottage on the shores of Galway Bay and settled down to the life of a country squire.

Ballyvaughan is a village that hasn't changed for a thousand years.

"Except to get smaller," they say. "For the young ones go to America or England or the cities. And the old ones go to the cold grave, God give them peace."

This is the wild west country of Ireland. The bleak Atlantic coast, battered by storms.

"To hell or to Connacht," said Cromwell. His English soldiers drove the Irish from the lush green eastern lands. And here they stopped.

☆ ☆ ☆

"We've all the tourists we need," said Brendan O'Regan of the Tourist Board. "And it's my idea that the traveler wants something more than a bed and a meal and a tour of the countryside.

"We think it can be more of an exchange. Not money, but something of the spirit. They bring us something and we give them something."

This is the Irish rent-a-cottage project, the greatest thing since Irish coffee.

"We've 50 villages," said Brendan, "where we'll build these cottages. And all of them in the places that have been going down. And this will bring new people and new life. And in return we give them a taste of Irish village life and the old culture you'll find no other place in Ireland."

☆ ☆ ☆

It was a warm day as we drove along the twisty road north from Shannon. Splashes of rain — what the Irish call a "soft" day. (A stormy day is a "desperate" day.)

It's open country. Lined with gray rock fences. The green rolling hills of County Clare give way to the rocky Burren. Slate-gray land left over from the Ice Age, growing alpine and Arctic plants in some botanical holdover.

There are the stone circular forts of the Firbolg. The original Irish. Short people who could disappear in hidden caverns — invaders reported they were fairy folk.

☆ ☆ ☆

Said Brendan O'Regan: "In each village we'd like to see a small playhouse. Or maybe in someone's big kitchen we'd have the local people do a simple play. Showing the visitors how life is lived. Or a story of the past times.

"It's a country full of history. And all of it's remembered as it was told in farmhouses by the traveling story tellers."

☆ ☆ ☆

They are the cottages of the countryside. Thatched. Whitewashed. The rooms are around the central kitchen which is also the living room. Pot hooks are hung above the great fireplace.

Said Brendan: "Then we've put in all the modern conveniences. The central heating runs hidden under the stone floor. Electric stove. The fridge. People buy in the local store and so they get to meet the villagers."

And when we arrived, there was a great, golden, crumbling peat fire in the fireplace. The soft wind came through the open half door. And great gray clouds went sailing over Galway Bay.

Bill To Hike Reserve Teacher Benefits Revived

By Associated Press

The Nebraska Legislature indicated Thursday it may be willing to increase the payments being made to the state's some 470 "reserve teachers."

These are teachers who retired before 1958 and thus have not been eligible to more generous retirement benefits accorded teachers retiring later.

Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway won 32-3 approval of a motion to revive LB848, a measure chiefly sponsored by Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa to boost benefits to these reserve teachers, who technically are being compensated for keeping themselves in readiness to be called to active teaching duty in an emergency.

Killed By Committee

LB848 had been killed by the Legislature's Retirement Systems Advisory Committee, which noted that in original form, the bill would have sharply increased benefits and would have added 677 new reserve teachers to the program at a cost of some $1.3 million a year.

The bill was brought to the floor after Sen. Florence Reynolds of Omaha, herself a former teacher, said she would propose rewriting the bill by amendments simply to increase by $17.50 per month the payments to the 476 reserve teachers presently counted in the state, at an annual cost of about $100,000. Present costs have been reported at $141,000 per year.

Reserve teachers are assured $840 a year under the present legislation. Any retirement annuities going to these teachers are supplemented by reserve teacher payments to make the $840.

Claims Bill

In other action, the Legislature returned to select file the biennial claims bill in order to add to it a $44,239 payment to the city of Lincoln for the University of Nebraska's share of cost of paving adjacent to the university. Such claims are routine.

Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln also moved for reconsideration of Unicameral action in failing to pass on final reading her LB454, making mandatory the vaccination of dogs against rabies.

The bill failed on final reading this week to receive the votes needed for passage.

Action on the reconsideration motion was deferred.

Shorthorn Sire Of Year Show Set In Lincoln

Judge for the national show will be Herman Purdy of Pennsylvania State University.

Two Bills Passed On Final Reading

The Legislature passed two bills on final reading Thursday:

LB906 (Marvel) — Authorizing Railway Commission to require a telephone company to furnish service to a prospective customer applying for same, if certain requirements are met. 40-0.

LB1061 (Knight) — Requiring posting of $2,500 surety bond by persons granted permits to solicit customers for a privately-owned trade or business school. 40-0.

Swanson To Head Study Committee

By Associated Press

The Legislative Council executive board reported Thursday the selection of Sen. William F. Swanson of Lincoln to head a study committee on the state's telecommunications system.

A recently adopted resolution, sponsored chiefly by Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney, called for immediate creation of the study committee. Normally, interim study committees are formed just prior to adjournment of a regular legislative session.

Named to serve on the committee with Swanson were Sens. Clark, Herbert Duis of Gothenburg, Richard Marvel of Hastings, Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, Rudolf Kokes of Ord and Richard Proud of Omaha.

In floor remarks, Sen. Terry Carpenter raised the possibility that any additional appropriations for establishment of the state telecommunications system may be held up until the committee is able to make a report on the system's status.

"I don't think they can be trusted with any more money," Carpenter said.

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called Thursday for a legal ban on "inflamatory propaganda" such as the "Black Panther coloring book" given to Negro children in San Francisco.

He enclosed a copy of the coloring book, which already had been presented to McClellan's investigating subcommittee by a San Francisco policeman. The book urged Negro children to kill white policeman and merchants.

Railroad Property Tax Values Cut 3%

By The Associated Press

The State Board of Equalization Thursday reduced by nearly 3% the property tax values of the six major railroads operating in Nebraska.

The tax reduction was accomplished when the five-man board unanimously approved an obsolescence of 30% for 1969 against the railroads' operating property.

Last year, the obsolescence or depreciation factor the board allowed railroads was 25%.

Overall, the assessed valuation was dropped from $88,747,364 last year to $86,131,484 for the coming tax year.

The Union Pacific was the only major railroad not benefitting from the reduction.

UP's assessment under the new formula was increased nearly $1 million because of improved operating conditions and a favorably improved market value.

The railroads had asked the board in May to equalize all property value assessments. At that time, the railroads were being assessed at 35% of value and the counties at only 28% of value.

To avoid increasing the counties' assessment, the board reduced the railroads' assessments by approving the 30% obsolescence.

The board turned down a resolution prepared by State Tax Commissioner Murrell B. McNeil which would have valued railroads in line with last year's formula, thus raising their tax values 1.68%.

The railroads with property in Nebraska, listing 1968 valuation first, and 1969 valuation second:

Union Pacific $47,127,668; $48,022,153.
Burlington $35,018,208; $32,146,265.
Missouri Pacific $1,656,376; $1,410,230.
Rock Island $982,318; $878,380.
South Omaha Terminal $306,075; $145,000.
Illinois Central $58,109; $58,756.
Norfolk & Western $21,590; $20,950.
Omaha, Lincoln & Beatrice $13,700; $13,295.
Santa Fe $6,225; $6,040.

Legislators See Peaceful 'Demonstration'

The Legislature was treated to a peaceful "demonstration" Thursday as a prelude to its adoption of a resolution urging Nebraskans to participate in patriotic programs on the 4th of July.

The resolution, No. 69, invited children to stage so-called "block parades" as an expression of love for country.

More than a dozen Lincoln school children, outfitted in various red, white and blue costumes and carrying flags, paraded down the center aisle of the Legislature while a Seoul, South Korea (UPI — Two Communist North Korean agents who entered South Korea earlier this month have been arrested and their weapons and code books confiscated, the national police announced.

30% Of Recommendations In Use

More than 125 of the Little Hoover Commission's recommendations, or nearly 30% of the 419 coming out of last year's studies, have been implemented, Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann was advised Thursday.

The progress report prepared by Robert Barnett, the governor's counsel, said another 35% have been partially implemented or are still under consideration.

The recommendations were made by a commission of Nebraska businessmen named by Tiemann to study and make recommendations for improved management and cost controls in state government.

Of the 419 recommendations in the commission's report, 227 were recommendations which could be implemented administratively while 192 required legislative action before implementation.

Of the Little Hoover bills introduced in the Legislature, approximately 44% have been killed and 16% have been enacted, the report said.

Approximately 12% were later withdrawn by the commission and the remaini 27% are still under co sideration by the Legislature

The report said executi departments implemente 41% of the commission's 2 recommendations that cou be implemented withou legislative action, a partially implemente another 41%.

Nine per cent of t recommendations we unacceptabe to agency head and an additional 9% ha received no action.

Barnett said another pr gress report would be ma in January, when a final ta of recommendations a ministratively or legislative implemented will be made.

Unicam Decides Tentatively On School Tuition Measure

By Associated Press

The Nebraska Legislature decided tentatively Thursday that the State Game Commission and State Board of Education should be required to pay tuition to school districts for pupils residing on tax-exempt land controlled by these state agencies and attending those districts.

But a proposal to extend the tuition-payment requirement to all governmental agencies in the same position — whether state, county or city — was rejected.

Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner's LB566, which in amended form requires the Game Commission and Education Department to pay actual per-pupil costs of educating children of employes of these agencies required to live on the state-owned land, was advanced from general file on a 22-13 vote. An earlier motion by Omaha Sen. George Syas to kill the bill fell short 14-22.

Killed was the broader-based LB1008, which would have called for up to $200 a year tuition reimbursement for any child living on tax exempt government land.

An initial Syas motion to kill LB1008 lost on a 19-19 tie vote, but after a motion to advance the bill from general file failed 13-20, a renewed kill motion from Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook carried 26-9.

Sen. Syas contended both measures represented a departure from the "whole concept of education" — that children should be educated regardless of ability to pay.

Floor discussion of the companion bills took most of the afternoon, and the modest 22 votes cast in favor of advancing LB566 suggested the measure have trouble garnering the 25 votes needed to pass on final reading.

Debate disclosed that LB566 would have immediate effects at least in two areas — at Sidney and at Crawford.

Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney reported there are about 50 children of personnel living at the Sidney Trade School who attend the Sidney public schools although not in the district. LB566 would make legal their attendance in Sidney schools and provide tuition payment compensation to the school district.

The alternative, he said, would be to make the trade school territory part of an adjacent Class 1 district, which lacks facilities to handle this many children.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance said the bill would ease a situation which finds three children of the superintendent of Fort Robinson, living on park land which is not part of a school district, attending school at Crawford although the Crawford school district collects no property taxes on Fort Robinson and gets no tuition reimbursement.

The broader LB1008 was sponsored by Sen. Rudolf Kokes of Ord, who said the policy of tuition reimbursement should apply to all government agencies if applicable to any.

Two other bills were advanced from general file Thursday afternoon:

LB1234 — Authorizing the State Railway Commission to enforce rules and regulations governing safety in construction, maintenance or operation of intrastate pipe lines carrying liquidfied gas and anhydrous ammonia. 27-0.

LB1041 — Increasing from $100 to $110 the ceiling on monthly payments by State Welfare Department for maintenance of a child in a private home, boarding home or incorporated institution, and adding the "emotionally disturbed" to the class of children — presently including physically or mentally handicapped — to whom the ceiling does not apply, 30-0.

Lincolnite Wins SNEA Position

Washington (UPI) — A graduate student at the University of Northern Iowa has defeated eight other contenders for the job of associate vice president of the Student National Education Association (SNEA).

He is Roger Kruse, 23, a Lincoln, Neb., native who earned his bachelor's degree at Westmar College in LeMars before enrolling in Northern Iowa's graduate school.

Kruse will be one of seven officers who will direct the activities of the 100,000-member organization of college students during the coming school year. Kruse is president of the Student Iowa State Education Association.

A Long Wait Indeed

Birmingham, England (AP) — The infinite wait in Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" was 20 minutes longer than usual at a night performance here this week. Actor Desmond McNamara, the star in the role of "Lucky," fell asleep on the train from London and missed his stop here. An understudy went on 20 minutes late and McNamara never appeared at all. Neither does Godot in the play.

Memoirs Revive Profumo Scandal

London (AP) — Christine Keeler, titian-haired sex bomb whose night life rattled Harold Macmillan's Conservative government six years ago, is about to tell all—again.

Now 27, the girl who disported with British War Minister John D. Profumo at the same time she slept with the Soviet naval attache, has painstakingly ground out, hunt-and-peck on a typewriter, her autobiography of those hectic times.

The prospect is pleasing to publishers, who were reported bidding for the 70,000-word opus. There may be considerably less joy among those who would like to forget.

Police Urged To Give Priority To Minorities

. . . IN HIRING NEW OFFICERS

The Region II Crime Commission Thursday recommended that the City of Lincoln give priority to minority group applicants in hiring policemen.

The commission urged the priority be given when all candidates are equally qualified.

Police Chief Joe Carroll said he had no objection to the recommendation.

The action came after the Rev. G. L. Collins, a commission member, said he thought "more blacks should be on the police force."

2 Blacks

The Lincoln Police Department has two black policemen — a detective and a patrolman.

The minister asked why several black applicants had not been hired.

Capt. Dale Adams, police department personnel officer, noted that of recent applicants, one lived out of the city and wanted only a summer job and another could not meet requirements.

The commission also voted to recommend that five policemen be added to the city department and four more Lancaster County deputy sheriffs be hired.

The commission recommended a salary hike of at least 15% for Lincoln policemen for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

Casting the lone nay vote on that motion was Leo Scherer, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's administrative assistant. Scherer said he felt the issue should be given more study.

The City Council recently passed an ordinance raising police salaries 7½%.

Proposals Backed

Commission members also endorsed proposals for longevity pay and compensation for college credits for policemen, and backed a recommendation for hiring a registered nurse as a night police matron.

Both proposals have been made by the Lincoln Police Department, although neither, has received the endorsement of other city officials.

A subcommittee considering applicants for the post as executive secretary for the commission was authorized to begin salary negotiations and interviews with the nine applicants.

Matching Funds

In other action, the commission voted to ask the Legislature to appropriate $539,200 in state matching funds for law enforcement improvement.

Commission Executive Director Walt Weaver said that amount would be necessary if the city were to take full advantage of the federal grants available.

The Unicameral's Budget Committee has recommended appropriating $165,000.

Human Rights Commission To Meet With Chief Carroll

The Lincoln Human Rights Commission will meet with Police Chief Joseph Carroll Friday to discuss complaints from minority group members involving the police department.

The informal meeting will be held in the mayor's conference room.

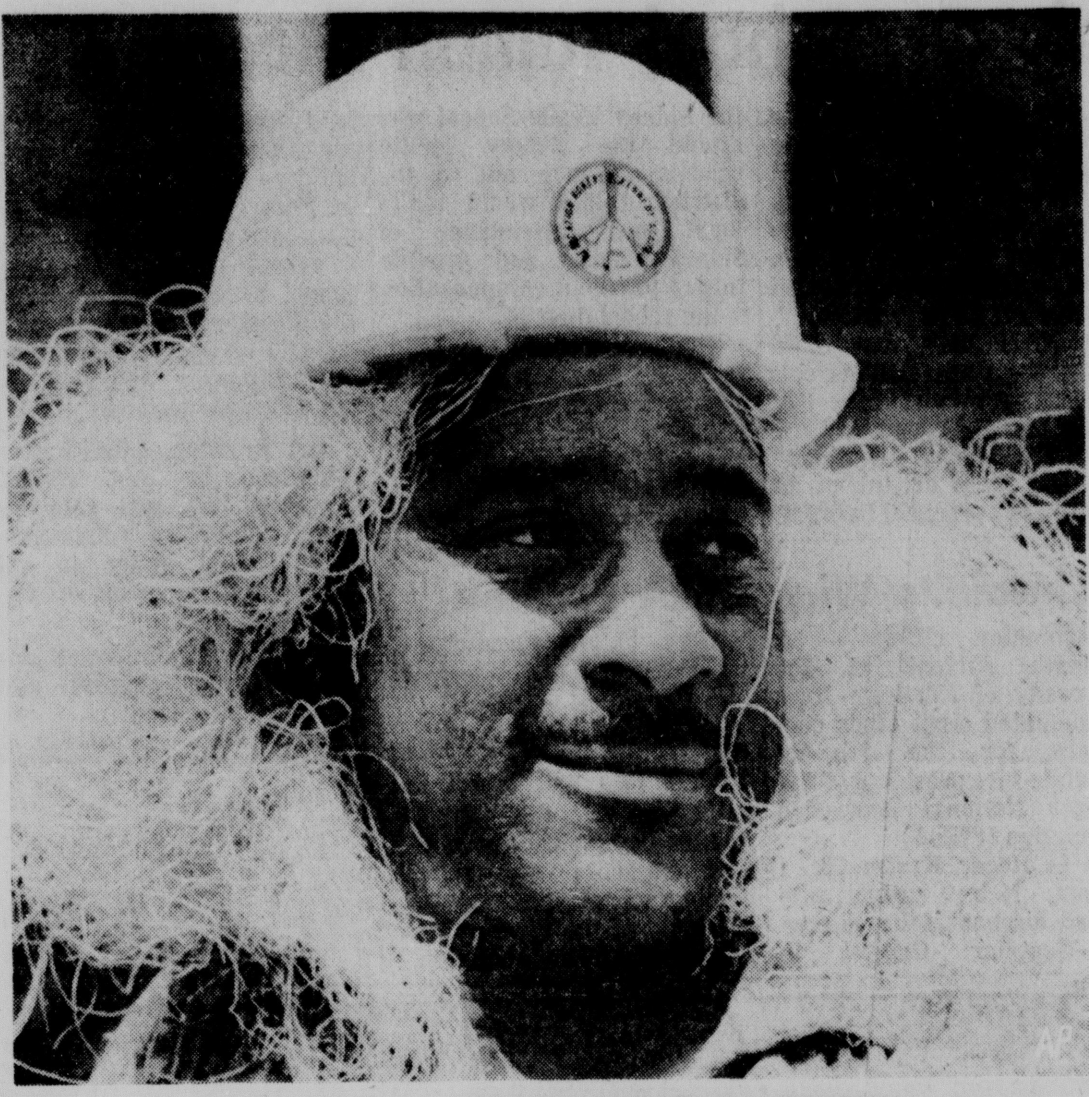
Commission Chairman Charles Huff said Thursday discussion would likely center on human rights as they involve the police department.

"We are interested in what the procedures of the department are in handling complaints," Huff said.

A letter to Carroll written by the commission in April said the commission had found that "many members of the minority groups are reluctant to complain because they feel nothing will be done."

"We have also become aware of a feeling among many minority and poverty families that they feel they receive different treatment from your department than does the average citizen," the letter said.

Huff said the meeting hopefully will lead to the establishment of some programs and procedures which could be beneficial to police-community relations.



HIP WAY TO BEAT THE HEAT

James Robinson of Washington, D.C., is no "hippie," but he's hip to the heat. To keep a cool head Thursday in the capital's near-90-degree weather, he packed his helmet with excelsior, shavings used to pack brick. Robinson is employed at a new building project in Washington.

Mayor Of West Berlin Calls For Recognition Of Existing Polish Border

© The New York Times

Berlin — Klaus Schuetz, the Social Democratic mayor of Berlin, Thursday became the first prominent German official to call for the recognition of existing boundaries on the continent, including Poland's Oder-Neisse Line, as part of a European security settlement.

Schuetz's statements, published in an article signed by him in the Hamburg weekly "Die Zeit," were seen as the fruit of a fact-finding tour he made to Poland earlier this month.

The highest-ranking German to visit the East-bloc country since World War II, Schuetz had talks in Warsaw with Polish Foreign Minister Stefan Jedrychowski, saw the Nazi concentration camp at Auschwitz and toured the Polish industrial fair at Poznan.

"The Polish people must have the security that their reality will not be changed," Schuetz wrote. Relations between the Germans and the Poles must be improved "not tomorrow, but today" and recognition should therefore not be delayed until the "never-never" time of a German peace treaty, he argued.

At the end of the war Poland moved its territory westward to the Oder and Neisse Rivers, thereby acquiring Germany's vast former eastern provinces, a move that Bonn has refused to recognize as final pending negotiations for a peace pact.

By dropping the reservation that any final settlement of Poland's postwar boundary must await a formal peace treaty, Schuetz went far beyond West Germany's official position, and even left behind the formula coined by Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, the Social Democratic Party chief, for Germany to "respect and recognize the Polish boundary" in the interim period before a peace pact was signed.

Prison Industries Cannery To Close

The close of the 1969 canning season in September or early October will mark the closing of the Prison Industries cannery located at the State Penitentiary.

Prison officials said the closing will end about 30 years of the prison-operated industry, which provided common staples for the Penal Complex and most state institutions, schools and county jails.

"It is not because we are tired of the operation," said Charles Wolff, superintendent of Prison Industries.

Wolff said the operation had been "plagued with a lack of suitable climatic conditions in recent years, and of course, this means poor quality vegetables.

"And then the best of the crops that can be canned — and live up to the high criteria we set — limits the quantity and prevents this factory from being self-supporting."

Wolff noted that another factor which entered into the decision to close the cannery was the increasing problem of adequate maintenance.

Three Canneries

Three canneries have been operated by inmates since the state prison was founded in 1869, but only one of the three was actually at the state prison.

That cannery was started in the 1930s and was located inside the walls until 1957 when Prison Industries took over operation and moved to a new building outside the walls.

Wolff said there is a possibility that the cannery will be replaced with a paint factory "because the physical plant itself, location and easy access to the area, lends itself to easy conversion."

Water District Protested By 43

The creation of a water district in Knox St. between 50th and 53rd Sts. is being protested by 43 residents of the proposed district.

The City Council is scheduled to take action July 7 on the proposed district.

Action Realty had petitioned for the water district so that a water main could be installed to a home being built.

The council has the power to create a water district and assess all property owners within the district, even though only one person has petitioned for the district.

Other special assessment districts require a majority of the property owners to petition for a district before such a district will be created.

The objectors, who say they have already paid for water installation, contend that the water main should be fully assessed to Action Realty.

Judge Outlines Problems Involving Federal Petitions, State Prisoners

The problems in federal habeas corpus petitions involving state prisoners were outlined Thursday by U.S. Court of Appeals Judge Donald P. Lay at the Nebraska Judicial Conference.

Judge Lay told the 50 judicial officials attending the two-day conference that at the center of any misunderstanding involving federal relations is the concern over the preservation of state procedural rules and finality of judgment.

Although there may be those who feel that the rights of the accused are amply protected through the criminal codes and procedures of the states, there is also the fundamental dignity and value that we place upon the life and liberty of any individual, he said.

Premise 'Simple'

"The underlying premise is simpley stated," the circuit judge of the Eight District said. "Without a fair trial, no person should be deprived of his life, imprisoned or fined even though he belatedly asserts a denial of his constitutional rights."

This has led to what some would term "intervention" of the federal courts into state court processes," said Judge Lay.

He told those attending the conference at the Nebraska Center that persistent problems encountered on habeas corpus appeals most often fall within three categories: the right of counsel at an evidentiary hearing, the exhaustion of adequate state remedies and questions of waiver.

Ranks Second

Judge Lay said Nebraska ranked second in the nation with 40% of state cases resulting in petitions filed to higher courts.

During a morning session Thursday, the judges heard reviews of recent civil and criminal cases in Nebraska.

Eleventh District Judge Donald H. Weaver pointed out various court decisions which had the greatest affect on decisions and procedures of the bench.

Among them were:

State v. Dabney, which indicates that a defendant may be convicted by circumstantial evidence of first degree murder.

State v. Young — The court noted that the state cannot be forced into a dilemma where it must either establish a proper foundation or be faced with a mistrial.

State v. Cannito — Certain guns were suppressed as evidence-in-chief but received during cross examination of the defendant. The court said "with some doubt we conclude that the ruling of the district court was correct."

State v. Oliva — A request for counsel does not per se disable an accused from thereafter waiving counsel.

State v. Beasley — Under certain circumstances the pre-trial identification of a defendant from photographs is not prejudicial.

State v. Allen — As long as the article can be identified it is immaterial in how many or whose hands it has been.

State v. Blackwell — The fact that a photograph might present a gruesome spectacle does not prohibit its admission in evidence.

State v. Howard — Fire officials while in performance of duty discovered felony. On question of improper or insufficient affidavit and lack of probable cause, court held there was no unlawful search and seizure.

Thursday afternoon, the conference divided into two seminar groups headed by Circuit Judge John T. Reardon of Quincy, Ill., and District Judge Eugene A. Burdick of Williston, N.D.

Dentist Faculty Meets

A series of panel discussions on new developments in dental practice is highlighting the two-day meeting of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry faculty which started Thursday at the Nebraska Center.

Bishop Proposes Reinstating Funds For Mental Care

Bishop Noah W. Moore Jr., leader of the United Methodist Church in Nebraska, has urged the Unicameral to reinstate funds relating to the care of the retarded.

He was dismayed, he said, "by the action taken by the Legislature's Budget Committee in deleting all of the funds relating to community and regional based programs for the retarded from the governor's proposed budget . . .

"As individuals we have a responsibility to see that each citizen of our state is supplied the ways and means to develop to his or her fullest capabilities while maintaining a real sense of dignity."

Youths To Report On Group Efforts For The Retarded

The Nebraska State Youth Association for Retarded Children will make a report Friday afternoon to Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann on its activities for the mentally retarded, President Bridget Moylan of Omaha reported Thursday.

She said the group will also deliver a note of appreciation to Sen. William Wylie of Elgin, who sponsored LB855 supporting community-based programs for the mentally retarded.

Accompanying Miss Moylan will be representatives of the association's 12 chapters over the state.

The escorts will go directly to the South Terrace of the Gallery.

Thirteen post-debutantes who were presented in 1968 and all of whom will appear in long, black gowns, and their escorts then will make their appearance and will take their places on the South Terrace.

The 24 debutantes, escorted by their fathers, will enter in alphabetical order, and all will be wearing long, white gowns. After making their bows to the chairman of the ball, the audience, they will proceed to the South Terrace, bow, and then to the South Vestibule where they will be announced.

When the debutantes and their fathers finish the promenade they return to Kirkwood Hall and open the ball with a waltz. They will be joined by the post-debutantes and their escorts. Then, another waltz, but this time the fathers give way to the escorts.

Miss Faulkner, a student at Sweetbriar College, has family ties in Kansas City. Her mother came to Lincoln from Kansas City as a bride, and the lovely debutante has an uncle Lawrence Earl Smith, residing in Kansas City.

The Debutante Jewel Ball has been a tradition in Kansas City since 1954, and it has a three-fold purpose.

First, to benefit the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra; second, to benefit the Nelson-Atkins Gallery of Art, and third, of course, to introduce outstanding young women to the community.

During the 15 years the ball has raised $413,402 which has been turned over to the Philharmonic and the Art Gallery.

MISS CHERIE LARSON

Announcement is made this morning by Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. T. Larson of Lincoln of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Cherie Renee, to Milton Andrew Kirsch, son of Harold Kirsch of Spangler, Pa.

The wedding will take place at high noon on Saturday, Sept. 6, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Mary's Church in Denton.

Miss Larson is an undergraduate at Middle Tennessee State University at Murphreesboro.

Mr. Kirsch will be graduated in January from Middle Tennessee State University in January.

Suburbia-On The Go

Lincoln very recently has undergone a sort of population depletion which, if not halted, might eventually reduce the city to ghost-town status. However, there is no need for alarm since we have it on good authority that this phenomenon will end in just about two months — when the vacation season comes to a close. Meanwhile, our town will be experiencing its share of empty houses, neighbors' dogs to take care of, and of course, incoming post-cards complete with the traditional "Having a wonderful time — wish you were here" message.

Before we mention just who has been — or is — going where, we'd like to tell of some visitors who recently have made stops in Lincoln.

Some former Lincoln residents called on Bethany Park Heights residents Mr. and Mrs. Phil White and children, Susan, Patti, Phil and Cathleen during the very recent past. Overnight guests of the White family were Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Huffman and daughter, Beverly, who included a stop in Lincoln on their summer vacation itinerary. Mr. and Mrs. Huffman and Beverly now make their home in McAlester, Okla.

Arriving last Sunday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stephens and children, Joy, Carol, Dan and Tom of South Hills, were Dr. and Mrs. Martin Patch and son, Kevin, of Washington, D.C. We understand that the Patch family, who are also former residents, left Lincoln yesterday.

Vacationing in Minnesota are Rosemont residents Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hutchins and children, Tommy and Amy. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins and the children, accompanied by Mr. Hutchins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hutchins, began their trip last Saturday. Their destination is Pequot Lakes, Minn., where they will meet Mr. Hutchins' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hutchins and children, Kathy and Barbara, of Peoria, Ill. for a summer holiday.

NU Coed Is Bride

The wedding of Miss Susan Shimonkevitz, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William F. Shimonkevitz of Alexandria, Va., to A. Kent Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boyer of Liberty, took place on Saturday morning in the main chapel at Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland. The 9:30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by Capt. Edward A. Colohan, chaplain at Andrews Air Force Base.

Miss Ruth Ann Shimonkevitz was her sister's maid of honor and her cap-sleeved frock of pink crepe and linen was in the Empire mode. The two bridesmaids, Miss Ellen Boyer of Liberty, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Susan Warp of Minden wore alike A-line, princess costumes of mint green crepe and linen. The attendants carried baskets of multi-colored summer blossoms.

Lt. Frank Boyer served as best man, and seating the guests were Richard Shimonkevitz of Alexandria, Va., and Orin Ellingson of Wausa.

Peau d'Ange lace over taffeta fashioned the gown chosen by the bride. The lace veiled the Empire bodice, designed with brief sleeves and a Mandarin neckline, and was repeated in wide front and back panels over the long, silhouette skirt. Her mantilla veil, bordered with lace, extended into a chapel-length train, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The couple will reside at 1227 D St., Apt. 2, in Lincoln.

The bride is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority; Kappa Epsilon, a pharmaceutical sorority, and Angel Flight. Mr. Boyer also is a senior at the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, Kosmet Klub, and of Alpha Zeta and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries.

Questions And Answers

Q. Would you please give the advantages of using a lipstick brush. I know you have mentioned this often, but I have missed these articles, although I read your column every chance I get.

A. With a lipstick brush you can more clearly outline your lips. A brush enables you to fill in with small lines and then blend which makes the mouth look soft and colorful instead of heavy and greasy. After you have applied your makeup base and rouge, than outline the lips with a brush and fill in. Now apply your face powder and brush off excess. Powder lightly over the lips and then touch them up once more with your brush. This process of applying lipstick will give your lips a natural coloring which will stay on much longer. Also, with a lipstick brush you can give fullness to thin lips or minimize lips that are too full.

Q. My husband simply cannot resist desserts when he sees them. However, since the children and I are slim, it seems unfair to have to do without our desserts just because HE is reducing.

A. Give him a break. It is difficult to see others eat rich foods when you cannot. You and the children can load up on the goodies at some other time rather than at the evening meal. Have them just before going to bed at night.

Q. My husband likes to drink beer or have a cocktail or so at lunch when eating with friends. Won't this spoil his efforts at reducing?

A. He will be much more successful if he leaves off all alcoholic beverages and soft drinks except low-calorie for 12 days. Surely he can do this. The items you mention count up rapidly in calories and, on a restricted diet, he needs all of the allowed calories for protective foods.

Q. I haven't any control over my husband's lunch. I imagine it would be possible for lunch to ruin the whole project, wouldn't it?

A. It surely would be. He will have to cooperate in this matter. Give him the menu for lunch to take with him each morning and remind him that those seemingly small items such as gravy and mayonnaise are chock full of calories. Impress on him the fact that it will be much easier if he will just stick to the diet for just 12 days.

Q. Is my husband supposed to have NO butter at all?

A. If he wishes he can have one medium pat of butter daily which you will divide in the way which makes him happiest and most comfortable. Measure it out at the beginning of each day and put a dot on the eggs, a bit on the baked potato — and so forth, as he wishes — but do not go over that pat

Q. Why can't my husband use your 9-Day Diet which was so successful for me?

A. Because of their greater stature, men require more calories than women even when losing weight.

Q. My husband keeps saying that he can lose his weight just by exercising. Is this true?

A. Tain't so. He will have to diet to lose those pounds, although exercise is helpful in getting rid of bulges by distributing weight and firming him up.

If you, too, would like your "better half" to be decreased in size, send for Mrs. Lowman's "Tubby Hubby Diet" booklet. It tells you what size menus are necessary to keep him happy while shaving off the extra pounds. Send 10 cents with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Abby: a private party

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell someone (a relative) that it's time she and her husband gave a party? When this couple moved to town three years ago, they didn't know a soul. We introduced them to all of our friends, and now our friends are their friends, too.

They are attractive, charming people and well-liked by all who know them, so they are very popular, but if they don't hurry up and start inviting some of these people back, they won't be popular much longer.

Since we did sponsor them, we feel somewhat responsible for their social sins of omission. What do we do? I can hardly hold my head up.

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO: It's not necessary to stick your neck out in order to hold your head up. If you "like" this couple and are seriously concerned about their threatened loss of popularity as well as the reflection on yourselves, tell the lady in a nice way that if she's planning to entertain, you'll be glad to help her. If she doesn't get the drift, well, you've done your part.

DEAR ABBY: In a few weeks I am going to become an American citizen. What is the correct thing to do on this occasion? Do you send out announcements or invitations to the ceremony? It is open to the public, but does this mean family only?

Should I have cards printed? It is such a big event for me I want to do something, but I don't know what. Can you help me?

FUTURE CITIZEN

DEAR CITIZEN: Why not have a private party and invite those with whom you'd like to celebrate the occasion? Printed cards are not necessary. A telephone call or a little note will do. Congratulations.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, the Lincoln Star, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades and North leads the four of spades. South follows with the king, which you win with the ace. How would you play the hand?

♠A10973	N	♠QJ865
♥J105	W E	♥A63
♦Q	S	♦A8
♣AQ92		♣854

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Diamonds and North leads the ace of spades. Assuming the trumps are divided 2-2, how would you play the hand?

♠—	N	♠Q6
♥AQ4	W E	♥853
♦AKJ105	S	♦Q972
♣AJ1063		♣K754

1. This is one of those perfect hands where, if you play correctly, no lie of the cards can defeat you.

Cash the ten of spades and ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond, cash the ace of clubs (this is important), cross to dummy with a trump, and lead the club five. If South follows low, play the nine. Assume North wins with the ten and returns a low heart. When you duck in dummy, South wins but is sure to be stymied. If he has no more clubs, he must lead a heart or give you a ruff and discard. If he has a club to lead, he is forced to establish your last club on which you will later discard a heart from dummy.

If, on the first club lead from dummy, South produces the ten or jack, you cover with the queen. It then becomes easy to build up an extra club trick after North takes the queen with the king.

In other words, even if you give South the guarded K-Q of hearts behind dummy's ace and North the K-J-10-x of clubs — which is the worst possible lie of the cards for you — you still make the contract by careful play.

2. Ruff the spade, draw two rounds of trumps, and ruff another spade. Then play a low club to the king. If both opponents follow suit, you are home.

Continue with a club. If South shows out, take the ace and exit with a club, forcing North to return a heart or lead a spade — on which you would discard a heart from dummy as you ruffed in your hand. In either case, you score the rest of the tricks.

You also make the slam if South follows low on the club lead from dummy. Finesse the jack. If it wins, you have twelve tricks; if it loses, North is up against the same end-play described above.

Fashion Goes To A Lady's Head

BY PATRICIA McCORMACK

New York (UPI) — The nation's hat makers string along with the knit binge headed fashion's way for fall and winter.

Knitted clothes will be at their most plentiful in any fashion season. The same for the knitted head coverings, ranging from little skull huggers to berets big as giant-sized pizzas, pressed flat and worn angled to back, side or front.

Many knitted hats are the novelty type but practical. Take a stitched jersey knitted look green helmet with green plastic visor, seen at the Millinery Institute of America show for the nation's fashion writers in New York.

Buttoned around the neck, it keeps out drafts. The visor will help keep solids in air pollution from blowing into eyes, forehead and cheeks.

The millinery show came at mid-point in a nine-day fashion event sponsored by American Designers group and the New York Couture business council.

In the fashion season ahead, with hemlines ranging from mini to midi to maxi, the Millinery Institute offered this guideline: "the longer the skirt the higher the hat."

It follows that since many females will cling to short skirts most of the time, the small, sleek hat will be the shape most favo

Keyed to wardrobe looks, the millinery smorgasbord goes like this:

—Panshats. Small caps to wide swinginging brims, newsboys and fedoras. In the J. P. Stevens show, a high silk hat (the kind males wear with tails) completed a jumpsuit costume.

—Small hats, the head huggers. In jersey, printed silk, felt and fur, plus ing brims, newsboys and fedoras. In shapes inspired by the 1930's — caps, calots, pillboxes. Some covered the hairline.

—For the swinging movement to softer fabrics, pleats and more feminine movement in fashion silhouettes, millinary heads for brims that sweep up and off the face. Many types came with matching scarves and boas.

Most fabulous and loaded with status: the fur hats. Not only in mink but in a world of new-fangled furs like lynx, broadtail, fox, stencilled lapin and other pelts the fur hats make news.

The bigger the brim, the more fashionable the fur hat. This makes the conventional fur hat of a season ago look outdated.

Millinery makers continue to advance evening hats. Some looked like a headdress — befurred or befeathered or bejeweled.

"It is the stop, look, and pay attention hat that can make any woman stand out in a room crowded with uncovered and undistinguished heads," the Institute said.

'A MILLION DEATHS LATER' . . .

No End In Sight In Biafra's War

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lloyd Garrison, former senior correspondent in Africa for the New York Times, has made a number of visits to Biafra, where more than a million persons have died in two years. This is the fifth of six articles.)

The New York Times

By LLOYD GARRISON

Owerri, Biafra — The invasion of Biafra, as Nigerian leader Yakubu Gowon put it so confidently, was to be a "quick, surgical police action."

Washington and London were reassured by their ambassadors that it would all be over in weeks, that the average Ibo had no stomach for war.

A year later, it would no longer be a "police action," much less a mere "African war." Britain and the Soviet Union would be locked in classic cold-war competition, each attempting to win Nigerian favor with arms supplies; even President Gamal Abdel Nasser would weigh in with the Egyptian air force.

Outnumbered, and outgunned, the Biafrans would slowly be driven back into the Ibo heartland, very much alone.

But then, not quite alone: Tanzania, Zambia, the Ivory Coast and Gabon would extend diplomatic recognition. De Gaulle would support Biafra's "right to self-determination," with France quietly financing a modest airlift of small arms and ammunition.

Third Year Begins

And now, a million deaths later, the war is about to pass into its third year with no end in sight. Since Biafra's near extinction in September, the army, once demoralized, has stiffened. Civilian resourcefulness has also begun to pay off.

Under the direction of an American-educated nuclear physicist, the research and production directorate has constructed scores of small portable oil refineries resembling Kentucky stills, some of which daily produce as much as 20,000 gallons of gasoline, diesel fuel and kerosene.

Biafra's Ph.D.'s from Oxford and M.I.T. are also making salt substitutes, soap and printers' ink, rockets, land mines, mortars and hand grenades. The .weapons are not yet mass-produced; each must be hand-tooled. But their appearance at the front has done wonders for Biafran self-esteem, if nothing else.

Troops Barefoot

The troops are still ragged, barefoot, without uniforms, hungry; the average infantryman is lucky to get one meal a day. Many conscripts are boys of 16. Ammunition is still so short that recruits don't get target practice before being thrown into battle. But they are fighting better now, not panicking in the face of Nigerian artillery. And tactics have changed.

If there were a standard manual of Biafran strategy, it would now read: avoid stand-up battles where Nigerians have all the firepower. Mine the main roads and litter them with tank traps and fallen trees. Then ambush, encircle, cut communications; strike at night as well as during the day.

The fall of Umuahia in April before a powerful Nigerian column spearheaded by British centurion tanks was a major psychological defeat for the Biafrans.

But days later the loss was offset when a Nigerian brigade — roughly 1,900 men — was almost totally wiped out after a three-month siege of Owerri, a vital cross-roads city on the southern front that is of far more strategic importance than Umuahia.

Very Much Alive

Biafra, so often written off in the past as on the verge of total defeat, is still very much alive, with its infantry now on the offensive all along the southern front.

The toll on both sides is appalling. According to the International Red Cross, the total number of Biafran wounded treated in hospitals numbered more than 19,000 during the month of April alone. And in Lagos, Nigeria's chief medical officer recently conceded that "more than 1,000" Nigerian wounded had been airlifted from the front in the course of one day.

The night before I left on my last visit, I asked Biafran leader Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu what he thought were Biafra's greatest strengths and deficiencies. He bypassed the strengths, replying:

"Our addiction to money threatens the whole military machine. Too many still think it's all right to cheat a little bit to come out ahead of the next person. Some officials in government who should be servants of the people are still behaving like masters — it's one of our worst hangovers from colonial days. And we must strive to get full, 100 per cent efficiency, and the only way to get this is through continuing self-criticism."

Self-Criticism

A novel exercise in self-criticism takes place three nights a week in Ojukwu's headquarters, where a cross section of Biafrans, from civil servants to taxi drivers, tackles a whole series of issues — everything from curbing corruption to containing latent tribalism (not every Biafran is an Ibo; roughly one out of three belongs to a minority tribe, and some were opposed to secession for fear of "Ibo domination" in politics and business).

Ojukwu is intense, like a black Orson Welles.

"When this war began," he said, "I knew we could never be defeated by mere force of arms. We could only lose this war by defeating ourselves."

Clearing Their Lungs

Letting a few readers clear their lungs by getting their gripes off their chests before this corner takes off for a final week of vacation:

The first to complain is Bob Martens of 3132 Van Dorn, who poses the question, "I would like to know what you and your staff have against anything to do with Lincoln Southeast. I am mainly speaking of the way you wrote up First National Bank's games. I think the articles are a little one-sided."

Dear Bob — Our staff consists of two graduates of Lincoln Southeast, one from Clinton, Okla., one from a place in Nebraska only the Indians have heard about and one who graduated from somewhere in Oregon so long ago, he can't remember the name of the school. I haven't checked, however, to see if First National foreclosed on any of their mortgages which might have caused some ill feelings toward your team.

"First, you put how they were beaten by Columbus 13-5, on the front page. Sure, that's all right because they played a miserable game."

Dear Bob — At least, we did something okay and that bit of encouragement leads me to continue reading.

"But, when they came from behind to beat Aamco, 10-5, I think this should be given better publicity than it was. It was on the second page. What's wrong with the front page? If Aamco would have done that to First National, I'll bet it would have been on the front page with a headline like 'Aamco Rallies To Stomp First National 10-5.' The headline stunk: 'Rally Saves First National.' "

Dear Bob — When you threw that 'but' in there, I knew we were going to get it. We have one problem with the front page. Unfortunately, it holds only 144 inches and have you ever tried to put a 6-6, 250-pounder into a size 38 coat?

"Al Hulbert played a beautiful game, and you don't even mention him. Any pitcher who can strike out Maurice Damkroger twice and then hit a triple with the bases loaded deserves credit. Then in the article about Witt's beating Columbus, you cut First National down again. You didn't have to mention First National again. I thought you were supposed to report news fairly. Tell me, what do you have against First National?"

Dear Bob — I currently am surveying all staff members to see if they've ever been turned down for a loan by First National. Maybe we can get to the root of the problem.

Here Comes Al

Now, here comes that mistreated pitcher, Al Hulbert, who also dislikes our coverage of First National Bank and says, "After reading the Lincoln Star June 6-7, I felt it my duty as a member of a good First National baseball team to comment on the recent write-ups.

"Although we are a young team and everyone except one guy will be back next summer, we still have the personnel to beat any team in the state as we showed June 5th.

"Columbus American Legion team which 'bombed' our First National team couldn't make it two in a row. This really cut our guys to pieces. Maybe if you would take the time to put in box scores everything would be all right. We were not 'bombed.' Columbus had only five earned runs while we had four."

Dear Al — It was our impression that all runs crossing home plate counted, whether they were earned or unearned and it seems that 13 Columbus runners crossed home plate that night. Even in sandlot ball, that's a bombing.

"Please print this letter because our fans also wonder why we can't get credit no matter what we do as a team. As pitcher for this First National team, I can easily say that I received great support from a great bunch of competitors and was very proud of how they played."

Dear Al—Don Drysdale would hardly consider eight unearned runs as evidence of great support from his teammates.

That's all folks until July 8.

Security Mutual Stops Pepsi, 8-5

Brian Grosscup slammed a solo home run to lead off the eighth inning and Mike Seversen's two-run single later that inning gave Security Mutual a 8-5 extra-inning victory over Pepsi Thursday night in an Elks League game.

Pepsi had taken a 5-1 lead after three innings, but Security Mutual scored two runs in the fifth on a two-run homer by George Osborn, then got two more runs in the top of the seventh to tie the score, 5-5, at the end of regulation play.

Namath, Rozelle Talk, Resolve Nothing

... BOTH SIDES APPARENTLY STICKING TO THEIR GUNS

New York (AP) — Joe Namath still was retired from pro football and Commissioner Pete Rozelle still was waiting for the New York Jets' quarterback to sell his interest in a swinging East Side lounge after Thursday's meeting.

No details of the conversation between the two men were released by Rozelle's office which issued only a terse statement:

"Commissioner Rozelle met with Joe Namath this afternoon for a long talk. Nothing was resolved and it is expected they will meet again."

The site of the meeting was not revealed except that it was in New York and not in the Commissioner's office.

Namath, who announced June 6 he was quitting football rather than sell out his interest in Bachelors III under threat of suspension, was due to make an appearance in Boston Friday at a football clinic. His plans after that were indefinite but it was reported he would be taking off for California July to make a movie.

Weeb Ewba , Namath's coach, was p sent at the meeting that so was attended by J nes Walsh, one of Namat s attorneys; Dick Schapp the author who is a pers ıal friend of Namath's, ar Jim Kensil of the comr ssioner's office.

Before the meeting Rozelle had id the outcome of t conference depended on ımath.

"What wil come out of the meetin is up to Namath," h said. "If he says the wants to stay retired and keep Bachelors III there's nothing more for me to say. I'd like him to come back and play and I hope he realizes this. I'll try to convince him of it."

JOE NAMATH

Rozelle said Namath had one recourse — a hearing with attorneys present which is guaranteed under the pro football constitution.

The fact that further meetings are expected convinced some observers that this was the first move toward a settlement that may require several sessions.

ROMJUE NEARS CITY TITLE

...Closest Threat 11 Strokes Back

STAFF PHOTO

TIM BATEMAN . . . holds on to this club as he follows his fairway shot.

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Larry Romjue virtually wrapped up his first Lincoln Men's City Golf Tournament title Thursday as the field of 120 golfers heads for the Hillcrest Country Club today for the final round still looking for the first par round to come up.

Romjue for the third straight day carded the best round with a one-over-par 73 at the Lincoln Country Club for a 54-hole total of 219, four over par, and an 11-stroke lead over runner-up Tim Bateman with only 18 holes to play.

But even with that huge lead, Romjeu was not ready to accept the trophy presented by the sponsoring Lincoln Men's City Golf Association.

"I did that once before," he laughted, "And lost." Romjue was referring to 1964 when he took a five-stroke lead over Charlie Borner into the final round at Hillcrest and lost.

The only apparent threat to Romjue's bid for a first title Thursday was that he might age into the senior flight before the round that took six hours to play was completed.

The extremely slow play left many of the golfers, particularly the veterans, grumbling after standing around on the course for so long.

"Maybe they ought to make a cut after 36 holes," suggested one disgruntled and tired finisher.

Romjue has had rounds of one-over-par 72 at Pioneers, two-over-par 74 at Holmes Park and th one-over-par 73 at LCC.

It was an rratic round for Romjue wit our birdies and five bogeys only nine pars.

He ran i one stretch of three straig bogeys on the front side, os. 4-5-6 — but three birdi kept him even going to th inal nine.

He sank birdie putts of eight feet the first hole, 20 feet at the cond and 15 feet at the nint then added a six-footer for birdie at No. 13 before ru ng into a couple of bogeys gain, at Nos. 14 and 16.

Batema who was in second pla going into the third round, remained there despite an eight-over-par 80.

He set an LCC course record for distance with a thrown putter at the seventh hole, breaking the shaft in the process and had to putt the rest of the way with his 1-iron.

Using the unorthodox club, he still needed only 14 putts with it on the final nine holes.

A close battle shapes up for the runner-up spot among Bateman at 230, Ed Smith at 231, Doug Brown at 232, Dick Dosek and Paul Anderson, both at 233, and Scott Brunzell at 235.

The second best rounds of the day were three-over-par 75s by Paul Anderson and Bill Fry, a former member of the now defunct Lincoln Comets football team.

Fry made the turn in three-under-par 33 with birdies at the second, fifth and eighth holes and a bogey at No. 7, but his game came back to him on the final nine with a 42 for the 75...

The 75s jumped Anderson all the way to a tie for sixth and Fry into a tie for 10th at 238.

Emil Frank, the only former champion in the tournament, leads Ed Meisenholder by five shots in the seniors division going into the final round.

Moody, Coody, McGee Tie For Cleveland Open Lead

... LEADERS FIRE 3-UNDER-PAR 67'S

Cleveland (AP) — U.S. Open ch npion Orville Moody and ob ure Jerry McGee posted la 67's Thursday and ch ged into a tie with red-hot Charles Coody for the first-round lead in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

ll were three-under-par on 6,061-yard Aurora Country ıb course and held a one- oke lead over a trio of ative unknowns — George xson, Bob Stone, and Cesar nudo.

A bulky group of 16 were cked at 69, including narles Sifford, Frank Beard, nd Al Balding.

In the dozen at par 70 were efending champion Dave tockton and Dale Douglass, vinner of last week's Kemper Open.

Aside from Moody, the 14-year Army veteran who scored his first tour triumph in the National championship, most of the top names in the game had their difficulties in the sweltering heat.

Lee Trevino had a 71, as did leading money winner Gene Littler. Masters champion George Archer and Jack Nicklaus were at 73 while PGA champ Julius Boros and Arnold Palmer, who had a course record 64 in Wednesday's pro-am, were at 74.

"I simply lost my concentration," said the troubled Palmer.

Moody had to birdie five of the last nine holes to overcome an outgoing 37 and gain his share of the lead. An eight-foot putt on the last hole helped him to the tie.

McGee, who had to qualify for this event and has yet to win, plays out of Lake Worth, Fla., but is a native of the Pennsylvania coal mine country.

Hickman's Two-Run Homer Lifts Cubs Past Pirates, 7-5

... TWINS TOP CALIFORNIA, 7-4

By Associated Press

Jim Hickman was another Mr. Instant Hero Thursday with a two-run, 10th-inning homer that gave the surging Chicago Cubs a 7-5 victory over Pittsburgh in major league baseball.

The victory, coupled with the New York Mets' 2-0 loss to Philadelphia, boosted the Cubs' lead to 6½ games in the National League East.

Hickman, who won a game for the Cubs with a last-inning homer last week, connected with two outs after Ken Rudolph walked, climaxing a see-saw homer-spiced match.

Roberto Clemente's two-run shot had given the Pirates a 5-3 lead in the eighth, but the Cubs tied it in the bottom of the inning on Ron Santo's two-run shot.

Earlier, Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen slammed consecutive homers in the sixth for the Pirates, while rookie catcher Rudolph had a two-run blast, his first as a major leaguer, and Billy Williams a solo shot for the Cubs.

Grant Jackson checked the Mets on four hits and struck out 10, while Larry Hisle scored both of the Phillies' runs. Hisle came in on Rick Joseph's single in the sixth, and scored on Johnny Briggs' bloop double in the eighth.

It was only the seventh loss in 27 games for the Mets. Bob Bailey's two-run homer and Jose Laboy's solo blast helped Montreal to an 8-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rich Reese and John Roseboro each singled in a run and Tony Oliva had an RBI double in a four-run eighth that carried Minnesota to a 7-4 victory over California and protected the Twins' one-half game lead in the American League's West Division. Harmon Killebrew had a solo homer for the Twins, his 18th.

Danny Cater scored the winning run in the seventh inning with a bloop double as Oakland stopped Kansas City 3-2. Reggie Jackson provided the Athletics' other two runs with a homer, his 28th, in the first inning. Pat Kelly had a solo shot for the Royals.

Reggie Smith cracked a line single off Zoilo Versalles' glove to score Dick Schofield with the winning run in the 10th inning for Boston's 4-3 conquest of Cleveland.

Houston, San Diego, Baltimore and Washington were not scheduled.

In night games Los Angeles clipped Atlanta, 3-0; San Francisco downed Cincinnati, 4-2; New York whipped Detroit, 6-0; and Seattle trimmed the Chicago White Sox, 3-2.

Willie Davis had a solo homer for the Dodgers, who vaulted ahead of the Braves by one-half game.

Mel Stottlemyre stopped Detroit on four hits in the New York Yankees' 6-0 victory.

BREAKDOWN IS SUFFERED BY JOE LOUIS

New York (UPI) — Joe Louis, a legendary heavyweight boxing champion who for years refused to quit the ring, suffered a physical breakdown of an undisclosed nature Thursday and was taken to the intensive care unit of Beekman-Downtown Hospital.

The hospital reported the 55-year-old Louis' condition as "good" and a spokesman said he would be kept there for observation. No official diagnosis as to the exact nature of the illness was made immediately and there was no indication how long Louis would remain in the hospital. When Louis was first taken to the hospital at 11:50 a.m., it was feared he had suffered a heart attack.

Gerry's Blanks Hastings By 3-0

Gerry's broke a scoreless tie in the bottom of the fifth inning on Mike Brumm's two-run single and went on to a 3-0 victory over Hastings in an American Legion junior baseball game at Sherman Field Thursday night.

In the midget game, Hastings defeated CWA, 4-3, with John Stoeckinger striking out eight and picking off three more CWA runners at first base.

Brumm, who finished with three hits, including a triple, scored an insurance run for Gerry's in the seventh, scoring on Ken Johnson's double to right-center.

Durousseau Wins 4 To Break Ak Mark

Omaha — L. J. Durousseau rode four winners, including both ends of a $40.00 daily double Thursday, breaking his own Ak-Sar-Ben record for most wins by a jockey, but the $10,000 Ak-Sar-Ben Speed Handicap escaped the grasp of Omaha's leading rider.

Durousseau, aboard top-weighted Buck's Jet for the featured handicap race, finished out of the money as Fred Ecoffey piloted Crying For More to a $16.00 victory.

Durousseau won back-to-back victories in the first and second races atop Rowdy Lady and On Hand, then repeated the feat in the sixth and seventh aboard Secolo and Jimmie Lou.

The four winners gave Durousseau 63 victories at Ak-Sar-Ben this season, four more than the old mark of 59 which he set last year.

It marked the third time this month Durousseau had four winners in one day. He rode five winners on May 23 and has ridden three winners in a day on four other occasions this season at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Durousseau wasn't the only jockey to have a big day, however. Burl McBride finished with three winners Thursday, coming in ahead of the pack in the fourth, fifth and ninth races.

Lutz Upsets Rosewall In Wimbledon Net Play

. . . ASHE PUFFS INTO SEMIFINALS

Wimbledon (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Bob Lutz, sparkplugs of the U.S. Davis Cup team, stormed into the last 16 of the men's singles Thursday — with the glory going to Lutz for a four set victory over Ken Rosewall of Australia in the All-England tennis championships.

Lutz, the Los Angeles 21-year-old and fifth ranked in the U.S., isn't seeded here. Rosewall, the veteran pro who first played here 17 years ago and still hasn't won the crown, was seeded fourth.

Yet it was Lutz who looked the professional and Rosewall the jittery amateur as the American calmly and coolly dissected the little Aussie in the last two sets 8-6, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2.

Stephenson No. 18 To Take Mound For Seattle Club

New York (AP) — When Jerry Stephenson, the latest Seattle Pilot, makes his appearance on the mound, he will be the 18th pitcher to work for manager Joe Schultz's expansion club. The major league record is 27, and the season isn't half over.

The old Philadelphia A's set the record in 1915 and the Kansas City A's tied it in 1955. The New York Mets also equalled the mark in 1967.

Stephenson, formerly with the Boston Red Sox, was brought up from the Pilots' Vancouver farm to take the place of Gary Timberlake who is on military leave.

McGuigan, Rossley Sign Eagle Contracts

Philadelphia (AP) — Halfback Frank McGuigan of Arkansas State University and Tom Rossley, an offensive end from the University of Cincinnati, have signed with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, the club announced Thursday. Both were free agents.

Rossley was the nation's No. 2 pass receiver in 1968 with 80 catches for 1,072 yards.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, PTA notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Lack Of Export Industry Problem In Philippines

The greatest economic problem of the Philippines is "developing an export industry that will provide funds to buy supplies and equipment for the industries needed," an economic expert said in Lincoln Thursday.

Dr. Clark Bloom, director of Ford Foundation programs in the Philippines, said that the Far Eastern country is "making economic progress — but not spectacular progress."

The Philippines largest industry at the present time is agriculture, Bloom said. "But it is difficult to see any substantial growth for it."

Economic Growth

He pointed out that the economic growth of the Philippines is at the rate of 5½-6% per year. But with a population growth of 3½% per year, the per capita economic growth is only 2-2½%, he said.

The country shows a "great interest" in the relationship between population growth and economic development, according to Bloom.

However, translation of the recognition of that problem and the desire to slow down the population growth is difficult in a country that is predominantly Catholic and which has the Far Eastern tradition of large families, he said.

To Lead Seminars

Bloom, who has also served as a economic consultant with the Ford Foundation in the Middle East, was in Lincoln to lead a week of seminars for elementary and secondary teachers attending the Nebraska Council on Economic Education workshop.

Bloom and other workshop speakers have discussed modern economics and trends and suggested ideas for the most effective use of materials in the classroom.

Also addressing workshop sessions were Dr. James Calderwood of the University of Southern California, Dr. Lawrence Senesh of the University of Colorado, Dr. Randall Klemme of Northern Natural Gas in Omaha, William Kuhl, a labor union official from Kansas City, Mo., Dr. Wallace Peterson, Dr. Stuart Hall, Dr. Howard Ottoson, Dr. E. S. Wallace and institute director William Gillies, all of the University of Nebraska.

Bond Unit Interviews Firms

The State Highway Bond Commission Thursday interviewed representatives of five investment firms interested in serving as financial consultants on the issuance of $30 million in highway revenue bonds over the next two years.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, commission chairman' said four Nebraska firms and one out-of-state firm were heard during the three-hour executive session.

Tiemann said two firms will submit written proposals later at which time the commission will reconvene to consider the proposals and make a decision.

The commission has been authorized by the Legislature to issue $20 million in revenue bonds for Interstate highway work this year and another $10 million after Jan. 1, 1971.

In addition to Tiemann, commission members include Wayne R. Douce, Omaha attorney, Don E. Etmund, Lincoln investment executive, Alan H. Williams, Scottsbluff businessman, State Engineer Marvin Nuernberger and State Highway Advisory Commission Chairman Dan Ramsey of Scottsbluff.

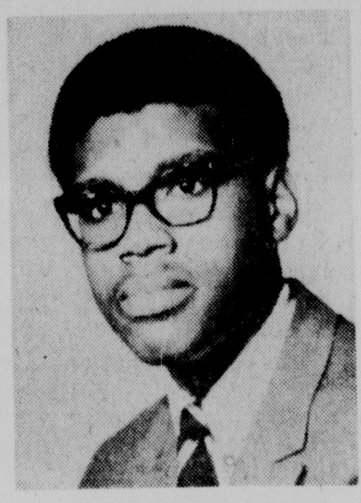
LU KLEPPINGER



JOHN THOMPSON

Lu Kleppinger, Thompson Selected All-State 'Ideals'

A Lincoln girl and an Omaha youth garnered the coveted titles of Ideal All-State Girl and Boy Thurday during the University of Nebraska's All-State High School Course final banquet.

Both music students in All-State, the two are Lu Kleppinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Kleppinger of Lincoln, and John A. Thompson, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. Andrew Thompson of Omaha.

They were selected from a field of 12 on a vote of the 380 All-State students after being nominated by the All-State faculty.

Miss Kleppinger will be a junior this fall at Lincoln's Southeast High where she participates in the marching and dance bands and the saxophone ensemble. She is also a newly-elected student member of the German Club council representative and a and the honor roll.

This is Miss Kleppinger's second year at All-State where she is majoring in instrumental music. She was featured with seven others in a student recital. She plays first chair, E-flat alto saxophone in the All-State band. Her minor is dance.

Thompson, a senior at Omaha Benson High, plays the piano, organ and French horn and is interested in composing. One of his compositions was performed at a Benson High Band concert. He ranks in the upper 5% of his class of 805 at Benson where he has participated in football and is a member of the French Club.

At All-State, Thompson is also majoring in instrumental music and plays French horn in the band and the Centennial orchestra and sings in the chorus.

Naming of the two came prior to the All-State final concert Thursday night in Pershing Auditorium which featured band, chorus, dance and orchestra students.

Stock Mart Prices Continue To Sag

New York (AP) — With many investors reported cautious and on the sidelines, the stock market continued to sag Thursday, although it did manage to trim some of its early sharp losses.

"The market's sharp decline at the opening was a continuation of Wednesday's down action," an analyst said, noting that there was some investor disappointment over the market's failure Wednesday to keep an early advance going.

"The selling this caused apparently ran its course about noon, and you go some selective buying. An oversold condition — and this market is very oversold after its weeks-long decline — encourages selective buying."

The volume — which totaled 10.30 million shares, compared with 10.49 million Wednesday — "seems to indicate that many investors still are concerned over the tight money situation and are playing it cautious. It also may indicate that some investors aren't convinced of the market's ability to stage a strong technical rally."

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 7.31 at 11 a.m. EDT but turned and closed off 3.82 at 870.28, a new closing low for the year and the lowest it has closed since last Aug. 9, when it closed at 869.65. The previous closing low for the year was reached, Monday when the DJI finished at 870.86.

Losses led gains by better than 475 issues at one point, but the margin later was narrowed. Of 1,563 issues traded, 772 declined and 523 advanced.

There were 3 new highs for the year and 285 new lows. Amerada-Hess preferred, Burroughs, and Xerox posted the new highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks — off 1.6 at noon EDT — closed off .9 at 310.4, with industrials off .9, rails off 1.2, and utilities up .1.

There were 72 blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York exchange, compared with 56 Wednesday.

Fourteen of the 20 most-active issues on the Big Board advanced, 5 declined, and 1 was unchanged.

Benguet, most-active on 139,100 shares, gained 1¼ to 22.

Prices generally were lower on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex index lost 7 cents to $22.72. Volume totaled 4.05 million shares, compared with 4.04 million Wednesday.

Hog Prices Are Strong To Higher

Omaha (AP) — Butcher hog prices were strong to 50 cents higher here Thursday, weights under 240 lbs. showing the full advance. Heavier weight butchers were generally limited to a quarter upturn and lots over 270 lbs. were scarce.

Wheat Futures Prices Decline

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures declined 2½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday and tended to influence selling of other grain futures as well as soybeans.

Except for brief interludes — and at the opening and the close — trade was light. Volume was estimated at about 65,500,000 bushels.

The liquidation of wheat futures in the beginning was of a profit-taking nature following a fair advance at the previous session. Later, however, when Kansas City exchange wheat futures came under hedging, or selling, pressure, local wheat also turned weak.

At the close, wheat was 2¼ to 2½ cents a bushel lower, July 1.27¼; corn was ⅜ to 1⅛ lower, July 1.26¾; oats were ¾ to 1¼ lower; rye was 1¼ to 3 cents lower, July 1.15½; and soybeans were ⅜ to ⅞ lower, July 2.63⅞.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

End Of Current Fiscal Year Good Time To Take Stock

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Economic Future

It is not customary to blow tinhorns and to drink champagne to see the fiscal year (which ends June 30) out, but it is an opportune time to take stock of what has happened to the national economy.

The sophisticated stock speculator and investor, in reappraising his position is eager to adjust his portfolio to the expected shape of things to come.

This is different from the attitude of the sucker who tends to bring his holdings into balance with prevailing Wall Street gossip. The sucker acts belatedly after the good (or bad) news is out.

The New York Stock Exchange is a mirror of human nature. When the stock market made two severe dips in 1962 after President Kennedy intervened in the determination of steel prices, the vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia ascribed the sharp decline in stock quotations, especially of over exploited electronic shares, to the sudden shortage of idiots at the market place. He explained that idiots, motivated by the spectacle of rising prices, had previously acquired stocks without knowledge of their intrinsic value solely because they expected that other idiots would later take stock off their hands at still higher prices. Suddenly when sentiment changed, there was a shortage of what he termed idiots.

Industrial Average

Sometimes news media, especially the electronic ones, unintentionally give the impression that a decline of a dollar in the Dow Jones Indistrial average means an average decline of a dollar per share of stock. However, the average is adjusted to all the historic changes in company capitalization through the decades. If a similar index of real estate transactions in new York used as the base cost the original purchase of Manhattan Island for $24 from the Indians, the current fluctuations would be indeed magnified. Frequently the New York Stock Exchange index of all listed stocks shows daily fluctuations of only 10% of the Dow Jones Industrial average.

Nevertheless, in June average stock prices made a new low for the year. Thus far, the most visible effects of the anti-inflation campaign have been in fallen security prices and a reduction of housing starts. The President correctly points out that there is a time lag, which he estimates at six months, between corrective federal policies and desired results. The goal is to dampen down the rise in commodity prices and in the cost of living.

The orderliness of stock liquidation up to this writing reflects a widespread belief that the correction is a managed one and not an accidental collapse.

Those who continue to hold substantial equity positions must be expecting that something favorable may be over the horizon after the corrective period. The money managers at Washington are still hopeful that they can cool off the economy without causing substantial unemployment and without creating panicky fear. This, of course, remains to be seen.

Orderly Markets

Orderly stock markets depend on different views about the future by buyers and sellers. If every one turns bearish simultaneously, there is stagnation, if not worse. In active markets, the number of sellers is precisely offset by buyers, though in interludes of pessimism the sellers are more eager to proceed than the buyers, who expect price concessions.

President Nixon has tried to develop a rationale for creating hope that there will be light ahead after we go through the corrective tunnel.

In this budget of possibilities, he expressed the hope that our fighting troops would be out of South Vietnam by the end of 1970, that he expected results from Paris peace negotiations in the next three months, he anticipated by August 15 negotiations on arms limitations would start with the Soviet Union, and sundry other possibilities.

To be objective, such expectations are, in the nature of things, speculative — not sure things. However, Nixon's political future is on the line, and he will do what he can to attain these goals.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be handled in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

House Scraps Regulations On Bank-Holding Companies

Washington (AP) — A majority of the House Banking Committee scrapped key sections of a bill to regulate one-bank holding companies Thursday, substituting provisions easier on recently formed financial combines.

A major change written into the legislation would provide that such companies would not be required to divest themselves of nonbanking affiliates acquired before Feb. 17, 1969.

"That was after the gold rush," Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., complained in vain. He referred to a wave of holding company formations, including a number by some of the country's biggest banks, in 1967 and 1968.

A combination of Republicans and Southern Democrats over-ran the Democratic leadership of the committee to provide the winning margin.

The action is subject to a final vote Friday, but there appeared no doubt that the combination is in control.

Regulate for First Time

The substitute measure, like the one originally introduced by Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., would bring under regulation for the first time, holding companies which include only a single bank.

Multibank holding companies now are regulated by the Federal Reserve Board and are barred from acquiring businesses not closely related to banking.

The substitute measure would rewrite the restrictions for all types of bank holding companies to permit acquisitions of businesses functionally related to banking. Opponents contended this is relaxing the standard. The amendment deleted from the bill a specific list of activities that would be permitted to bank holding companies — in effect meaning they could have done nothing not listed.

The substitute would prohibit banks and bank holding companies from going into the mutual fund business. It would also bar acquisition of general insurance agencies, but there was dispute in the committee as to whether the language forbids the acquisition of insurance companies themselves.

The Feb. 17 cutoff date voted by the committee is the date on which Patman's strong regulatory measure was introduced. The change was adopted by a vote of 20 to 15.

Patman's bill would subject one-bank holding companies to the same rules as those with several banks, requiring complete divestiture of all holdings not related to banking.

Month Set Aside To Decide Fate Of Aged Crater

Honolulu (AP) — Waikiki's famed Diamond Head, symbol of Hawaii to millions around the world, has won a reprieve from encroaching high-rise development.

The city has a month to pass a resolution setting aside 140 lots for a public park on the slopes of the extinct crater.

If it doesn't act by then it must grant a building permit for an 11-unit condominium on the lower slopes.

Some residents fear this will open the way for high-rise development that would bury the 760-foot craggy landmark under tons of concrete.

Pool Lot Affected

Repair work on 48th Street for about 10 days will force patrons of the University Pool to use the north parking lot of University Park, the City Street Department announced.

Casualty-Cutting Plan Proposed For Vietnam

©The New York Times

Washington — A proposal for a modified strategy in Vietnam, conceived by a "think tank," is circulating at high levels of the Nixon administration.

The authors of the plan, at the Hudson Institute in Westchester County, N.Y., maintain that it could cut American casualties to a handful, make the war "acceptable" in the United States and either increase chances for a peace settlement or offer a long-term chance of "winning" the war.

The proposal includes a reduction of American forces to 100,000 or 200,000 men by the middle of 1971, reliance only on volunteers, extension of the tour of duty to two years for each soldier and construction of new types of "death-belt barriers" around Saigon and along the Cambodian border to block infiltration. It also calls for new combat tactics.

Old, New Combined

Administration officials who have attended briefings on the plan in recent weeks at the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House said it combines old and new ideas in a wide-ranging package that has "considerable appeal."

One official said that while it was unlikely the whole package would be carried out, some of the ideas were "being woven into the fabric of our strategy." He declined to say which ones.

The Hudson Institute proposal grew out of a series of studies in Vietnam financed by the Defense Department, officials said.

The Hudson plan would cut the present force of 540,000 American servicemen in Vietnam over the next two years to a strength of 100,000 to 200,000.

Half of these would form a strategic reserve force of two to three combat divisions that would be pulled back to the coast. It would be available primarily to reinforce South Vietnamese troops if North Vietnam suddenly moved a large new invasion force into the country.

Support Offered

The rest would be in tactical fighter squadrons, helicopter companies, long-range artillery batteries and logistics units. Their job would be to support the South Vietnamese military units that would take over the principal burden of fighting the war.

This breakdown is similar to the concept already tentatively accepted by the administration in its long-range planning, officials say.

But the Hudson plan differs in some details. For example, it would double or triple American special forces units in Vietnam to build larger units of irregular Montagnard tribesmen to roam the desolate border regions of the country, harassing enemy troops. At present, the administration is cutting down on special forces as more and more of the irregular units are turned over to South Vietnamese leadership.

The Hudson plan would de-emphasize large-unit sweeps through enemy base camps, substituting many very small patrol actions lasting several days each. When a patrol found an enemy force or camp, it would call in air strikes and artillery fire.

SDS Is Seen As Most Dangerous Of Leftist Outfits

©The New York Times

Washington — A New York City police detective pictured the Students for a Democratic Society Thursday as "the most dangerous leftist organization" in the nation.

Detective Sgt. Tom Courtney told Senate investigators that SDS is a "grave threat to society generally" as it pursues its "unbending aim of destroying every vestige of an ordered society under a capitalistic system."

Testifying before the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, Courtney also detailed activities of other militant groups, including the Black Panther Party, the Revolutionary Action Movement, the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and the Republic of New Africa.

The Very Latest In Translucent? Glass, Naturally!

Westpoint, Conn. (AP) — For ladies who draw the line at the current see-through fashions, designer Roslyn Raum has a translucent next-best: a stained-glass bra.

A stained glass bra? Right!

And why not? The nude look is here. The transparent look is here. And breastplates ranging from simple chain mail to ornate metal designs are here. The "Tiffany bra," as Roslyn calls it, is made of stained glass pieces fused together by very soft, malleable metal.

France Pledges Policy Of Friendship

©The New York Times

Paris — French Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas Thursday pledged fidelity to France's "friendship" with the United States and declared that his government is willing "to go as fast and as far as our partners" in building Europe.

In the first major policy declaration made by the regime of President Georges Pompidou, the new premier made a strong pledge to maintain the rate of the franc and defined an economic policy combining growth with deflation.

Without reversing any of former president de Gaulle's major policies, Chaban-Delmas struck an entirely new tone.

The contentiousness that had characterized French government statements on foreign affairs for the past 11 years was conspicuously missing.

Issues Avoided

Quebec and Israel and France's nuclear striking force were not mentioned. There was no plea for a return to the gold standard. There were no references to the threat of the American and Soviet "hegemonies," a central theme of the Gaullist concept until recently.

Chaban-Delmas, looking handsome and dashing as behooves a top national tennis player and resistance hero, took an hour and a quarter to deliver the government message to the national assembly.

The premier went before the assembly to present his cabinet. In keeping with the constitution, the assembly was not asked to approve his program.

Chaban-Delmas' references to Europe and the Common Market were by far the most interesting points of his foreign policy declaration, in the view of diplomatic observers.

He came close to contradicting De Gaulle's assertion that British membership would automatically change the nature of the Common Market and transform it into little more than a free trade area.

British entry "must strengthen what has already been achieved, not weaken it," Chaban-Delmas said of the Common Market. He called for thorough discussion of the problem, first among the present members of the community, and formally repeated Pompidou's campaign offer to hold a six-nation summit on the British question.

Prince Undecided On Who To Wed

London (AP)—Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, said Thursday he could not decide whether he should marry a princess from another royal family or a British or Welsh girl.

Charles, 20, years old and preparing for investiture as Prince of Wales next Tuesday, did not indicate he had a particular young woman in mind.

"This is awfully difficult because you've got to remember that when you marry, in my position, you are going to marry somebody who perhaps one day is going to become queen," Charles told two television interviewers.

Israel Expects Step-Up In Hostility From Egypt

Tel Aviv (AP) — Israel claimed its jets shot down two Soviet-built Egyptian MIG21 fighters Thursday as Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned Israelis to prepare for a step-up in Egyptian hostilities.

The Israeli aircraft encountered Egyptian MIGs and engaged in a dogfight over the Gulf of Suez south of the Suez Canal, a military spokesman said. One MIG was seen plunging into Egyptian territory and a second Egyptian warplane was hit "and evidentally destroyed," he added.

It was the third Egyptian MIG 21 claimed in three days and the 21st Soviet-built Egyptian plane claimed downed by the Israelis since the 1967 war.

Arab Hits Claimed

A Cairo communique said Egyptian jets "hit" two Israeli fighters trying to enter Egyptian air space. It said all Egyptian planes returned to base safely.

Shortly after the jets battled over the Suez, Dayan declared in Tel Aviv: "Egypt is the main enemy facing Israel today."

He warned that Cairo's forces along the Suez Canal cease-fire line were going through "a process of activization."

The Egyptians launched three commando attacks across the canal this week in larger numbers and more bodly than in the past.

But it was a bad first week for the new Egyptian air force chief, Gen. Aly Baghdadi, a former Olympic swimming champion. According to Israeli claims, three fighters have been lost within two days of taking up his new command.

On the Jordanian front, Israeli warplanes again bombed two Jordanian army positions just across the cease-fire line near the Allenby Bridge in reply to firing on Israeli forces, a military spokesman said.

The actions came amid speculation in Israel that her forces would pursue a more aggressive role along the cease-fire lines.

Information Minister Israel Galili said Wednesday night the army might have to take "stronger measures" to meet "accelerated Egyptian aggressiveness along the canal."

He also warned of possible heavier measures against the Jordanian army and Arab guerrilla organizations using Jordan for attacks into Israel.

10 Houses Destroyed

A broadcast from Jordan said four Israeli fighters rocketed two Jordanian farm areas north of the Dead Sea. The broadcast quoted an army spokesman as saying 10 houses were destroyed by rockets in the farm village of Shihadat. The other village, Al Maghtas, suffered no damage, he added.

The spokesman said there were no military casualties in either raided area — a wording that could mean there were civilian casualties.

Jordan conceded eight soldiers were killed and six injured in Israeli attacks — on three Jordanian areas south of Galilee Wednesday.

Goldberg To Reagan: Let Sirhan Live

New York (UPI) — Former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg Thursday asked California Gov. Ronald Reagan to commute the death sentence of Sirhan B. Sirhan, who has been convicted of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"I presume to do so because Sirhan's diary, introduced in evidence at his trial, shows that I was listed by him for assassination along with Sen. Robert Kennedy," Goldberg said in a letter to Reagan.

"I am convinced that whatever may be said of times past, the evolving standards of decency that mark the progress of our society now condemn as barbaric and inhuman the deliberate institutionalized taking of human life by the state," Goldberg said.

He said many of the civilized Western nations have abolished the death penalty, and he noted there have been no executions in the United States for 18 months.

Collector Finds Stolen Items In Shop—His Own

Philadelphia (AP) — Anything connected with the Civil War era interests Manuel Kean, a 54-year-old archivist who has accumulated more than 300,000 items dealing with life in America a century ago.

It's a labor of love that's occupied more than half his lifetime.

So when he hears about stuff of the period he goes looking.

A friend told Kean that an antique shop in South Philadelphia called "The Canary" had lots of Civil War papers.

Kean went to the shop. There he discovered he was looking at his own material —about 3,000 items stolen from Kean's warehouse.

Police charged the store keeper, William Smith, 32, with receiving stolen goods. Officers said Smith told them he bought the books and papers from two young men for $285.

Monroe Youth, 15, Due To Receive Hero's Award For Saving Cousin, 5

Hastings (AP) — A hero's award for 15-year-old Boyd Gertsch of Monroe was announced by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gertsch, the youth was credited with saving the life of his five-year-old cousin, Paul Gertsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Von Gertsch of Monroe.

The little boy was trapped for several minutes when a sofa bed folded while he was taking a nap. The parents were not at home at the time.

Paul was not breathing and his body was blue when a sister, Boyd and Mrs. Clair Gertsch, their grandmother, managed to free him.

Boyd Gertsch put his junior fire patrol training to use and administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. His cousin was breathing before the Monroe Fire Department's rescue squad arrived.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
